Men who now hold or may hereafter be given deferred classification on account of dependency will be permitted to enlist in the navy as the higher pay given is expected to do away with the possibility of hardships to dependants. Those who have had previous service in the navy also will be permitted to re-enlist.

In no case, not even from the draft, will the navy accept men who cannot read, write and speak the English language, nor accept men not citizens of the United States.

Much of the same system will be followed in enlisting men both in the navy and Marine corps.

Men desiring to enter either the navy or the Marine Corps will be required to make application at the proper recruiting office. Announcement of naval mobilization points announced by Secretary Daniels in San Francisco for California, Nevada and Arizona.

The navy mobilization inspection for the Western Division will be located at San Francisco.

AS HONOR GUEST.

Frank Carlisle, who has been requested by T. E. Donnelly, head of the pulp and paper section, War Industries Board, to act as the section's representative for Southern California and Western Arizona, is expected to be the guest of honor at the luncheon-meeting of the Los Angeles Publishing Association today at the Los Angeles Athletic Club.

alleged female bandits, described and believed by the police to be the feminine hold-up gang sought for the numerous recent robberies committed by women answering their description, were arrested early today following an attempt to rob Arthur B. Smith of No. 1[illegible] East Eighth street, whom they are said to have stabbed when he failed in their object, according to the police.

The women gave the names of Edith and Alice Lewis. They were arrested by Detectives Reuton and Hawtry of the Flying Squadron near the Broadway market, where Smith, after being stabbed in the back, followed them, the officers say. The women are held on charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

According to Smith's story, he was on his way to the market to see a demonstration of an automobile truck when the women called to him to stop. Smith attempted to walk past them, but the two blocked his way and succeeded in engaging him in conversation, for the man told the police. Then he attempted to brush one woman aside and walk on he was assaulted in the back, he said. Although bleeding freely from a wound, he followed the two women for several blocks and assisted in locating a night policeman, who telephoned for the police. He later was treated at the Receiving Hospital, where it was declared his wound was dangerous.

In the two prisoners deny the charge of attempted robbery and Miss Smith accosted them.

Act Violator?

Minnie Ashby, 33 years old, was arrested in a house at 1[illegible]-A Central avenue shortly before midnight and booked at the University Jail on a charge of violating the Espionage Act. She is held without bail for the Federal authorities.

From the information in the possession of the police the woman is wanted by the Federal authorities on suspicion of harboring a man named Waters [illegible] the draft. Early today she was held incommunicado at the County Jail and no further details of the case could be obtained.

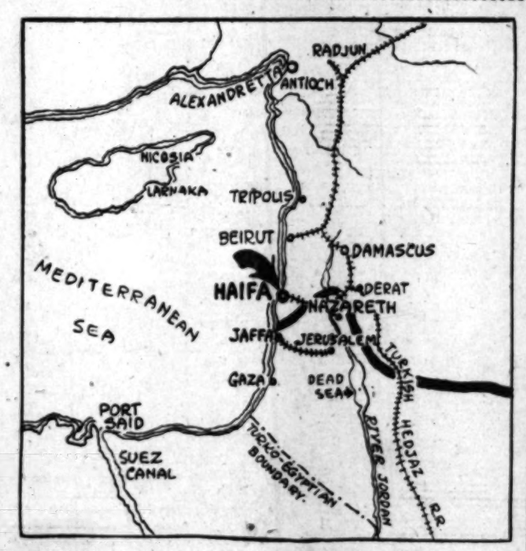
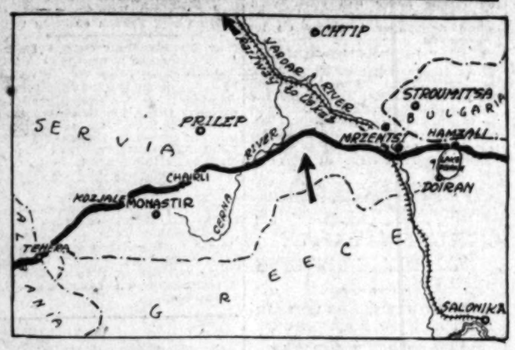
FOE REELS ON THREE FRONTS

THE MAN WHO SMASHED TURKS AND WHERE HE DID IT





Gen. Sir E. H. Allenby, captor of Jerusalem, and who now practically has placed hors de combat two Turkish armies operating in Palestine, thus dealing a tremendous blow to one of the Kaiser's faltering allies.

The upper right hand map graphically shows Gen. Allenby's sensational offensive against the Turks. While he presses northward, another British force made up largely of Arabs, are pressing in from the east bank of the River Jordan. Two Turkish armies have been reported cut off and taken prisoner. The immediate objective of the British is the port of Haifa (indicated by arrow,) where it is the intention to establish a base of supplies for future operations. The railroad communications which make Turkish operations possible in this sector are in the hands of the British.

The lower map shows the victory in the Macedonian sector. The arrow indicates the point where a Serbian army has advanced forty miles between the Cerna and Vardar rivers. The Vardar Valley is the natural highway, following which the Allies hope to cut off Bulgaria from Austria.

On both maps the black line shows the position of the Allied troops as indicated by later dispatches.

The liberation of Palestine by the British forces will be celebrated in New York by a demonstration at the Carnegie Hall, next Sunday night, at which Secretary of the Navy Daniels is expected to speak, it is announced by the Zionist Council of Greater New York. Significance is added to the celebration by the fact that the Jewish legion probably including the American contingent, is actively participating.

BRITISH CAVALRY ROUTS TURKS IN PALESTINE; GAIN ON WEST FRONT

BY W. Y. MASSEY.
[ATLANTIC CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]
[Copyright.]

PALESTINE, HEADQUARTERS, Sept. 22.—At 1 o'clock today the New Zealanders crossed the Jordan and secured the Damie bridgeheads. The Turks of East Jordan seem to know so little of what is going on that they shelled some of our positions east of Jericho. The infantry which had rolled up the enemy from the west had little to do today beyond making surrender of isolated parties, but it increased its captures of guns, including four naval 4's. Irish, Welsh and Indian infantry operating about the Nablus road got well north and east of Nablus, adding to the discomfiture of the retreating enemy. The Irish covered twenty-one miles in thirty-six hours.

The cavalry approached Kafr Kenna and Seffarieh north of Nazareth yesterday. Today the yeomanry and Indian cavalry beat off an attack on the Tebrias Acrdon road north of Nazareth. From the direction of Haifa Indian lancers killed sixty and captured 100. Other yeomanry and Indian horsemen in Beisan are continuing their remarkable sweep. Farther on 600 Turks were taken in small parties last night.

Gen. Allenby has crushed the Turkish Seventh and Eighth armies. His cavalry has closed every exit except one, which cannot be reached by many of the enemy and in a wide encircling movement his horsemen brilliantly broke down all attempts to put up delaying rear-guard fights. The cavalry captured Nazareth, Nablus, Beisan and Jenin and had one charge on the plain of Armageddon and another at Jenin, have secured an enormous quantity of valuable booty, and we have not heard the last of their efforts.

Once the infantry had broken through the southern defenses, the cavalry had great opportunities while the infantry has continued to display superb skill and endurance in driving the enemy from hills between the plain of Sharon and the Judean plateau. The cavalry movements were perfectly timed and have been a masterly success. Their unfailing regularity in fulfilling the plans laid down by the staff suggests they were regulated by the clock. British yeomanry, Australian light horse and Indian cavalry, all in magnificent condition and in a high state of training, have performed a feat almost without parallel in this war. The critics, who declared the day of cavalry is over, must hide their heads. The utter defeat of the Turkish Palestine army would not have been possible but for Allenby's bold use of cavalry.

The whole country I have passed through is littered with abandoned and bombed transport, ammunition depots, motors, lorries and a large amount of rolling stock. Nablus, the Chechem of the Bible, was taken this afternoon by Australian light horse and French mounted troops. The latter passed into the town first. We previously had occupied Messudies and Samaria by infantry, also now Nablus, Irish, Welsh and Indian troops operating in an appallingly difficult country between the Nablus road and the Jordan Valley are harassing the remnant of the enemy's forces striving to get away by the Damie ford to the east of Jordan road. There the enemy has been incessantly bombed. Nearly ten tons of bombs were dropped from low altitudes and 56,000 rounds of machine-gun fire. The condition of the road tells of the effectiveness of the air work.

CAVALRY COMES IN.

Directly the Londoners and Indian infantry had cleared three lines of trenches on the sea coast early on Thursday the yeomanry and Indian cavalry moved up the seashore at a gallop, crossed Nahr Falik, swept north, got over Nahr Iskanderan, collecting 750 prisoners on the way. After sundown they advanced northeastward on low ground, got into the hills west of Mt. Carmel, rode over the plan of Esdreselon and at sunrise yesterday climbed the hill on which Nazareth stands. There they met with considerable opposition, but surrounded the town, which was taken during the morning, with 2200 prisoners. The Mayor in surrendering the town, said that Liman von Sanders, the German-Turkish generalissimo, left Nazareth the previous evening, when he heard the cavalry were over at Iskanderan. I saw this batch of prisoners as I came over the plain today. They included many German telegraphers, mechanics and other technical troops.

The section of cavalry in capturing Nazareth covered over fifty miles in twenty-four hours with stiff fighting in several places. Another cavalry column passed through Tabgor defenses and also moved north a few miles from the coast. This

IN FRANCE.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY IN FRANCE, Sept. 23, 2:30 p.m.—The French now hold the left bank of the Oise for more than half the distance from La Fere to Moy.

Gen. Debeny's troops captured the woods north of Ly-Fontaine last evening and his patrols went through Vendeuil to the Oise.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY IN FRANCE, Sept. 23.—The Germans had today evacuated Vendeuil under the menace of being cornered there with their backs to the river by the French advancing toward the river in the region of Ly-Fontaine.

The French about the same time reached the quarries just north of Travecy, which completed the conquest of the west bank of the Oise in that region.

Gen Debeny's forces have reached the low marshy country of the valley of the Oise, which, together with the formidable defenses erected by the Germans around St. Quentin, presents enormous difficulties to any troops that might attempt a crossing north of La Fere.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, Sept. 23, 2 p.m.—The continuous efforts of the enemy to dislodge the British from their positions about Epehy, which gravely threaten the Hindenburg line, have resulted in hard local fighting with the odds in favor of the British.

The British troops have clung tenaciously to their new defenses, while the weary and weakened Germans keep desperately hammering at them.

The engagements reported along the remainder of the front have been of little consequence.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY ON THE LORRAINE FRONT, Friday, Sept. 20.—Wounded in the arm during the battle for Vandieres, Lieut.-Col. Emory J. Pike of Des Moines, divisional machine-gun officer, insisted upon remaining in command on the field and did so until mortally wounded by a shell several hours later.

This was on September 15 and the officer died the next day and was buried in a French cemetery near by.

Officers say Lieut.-Col. Pike consolidated machine-gun positions, making possible the capture of Vandieres.

BRITISH ADVANCE LINES.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

WITH THE BRITISH FORCES IN FRANCE, Sept. 23, 10 a.m.—In a small attack east of Gavrelle, in the Arras sector, British troops last night advanced their lines for an average depth of 600 yards on a front of 1100 yards.

Haig's men gained several strong positions in the patches of forest on the high grounds.

The British also have captured some ground southeast of Villers-Guislain on the front southwest of Cambrai, and have cleaned out several enemy strongholds northeast of Ronssoy after hard fighting, which lasted the greater part of Sunday night.

The Germans last evening delivered a counter-attack at Berthancourt, near Pontruet, supported by heavy artillery fire. A sharp infantry engagement followed, in which the Germans pushed forward into some of the British defenses. An immediate counter-attack, however, completely restored the situation.

IN MACEDONIA.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Sept. 23, 5 p.m.—Between the Vardar River and Lake Doiran, on the eastern end of the Macedonian front, British troops have reached the line of Kara Oghlular and Hamzali, and are advancing on Mrzentsi on the west bank of the River Vardar, according to an official statement issued this evening by the British War Office.

As the result of the heavy pressure of the Entente Allied forces the enemy has evacuated the whole line from Doiran to a point west of the Vardar.

ROME, Sept. 23.—The Italian troops in Macedonia have advanced an average of more than seven miles in pursuit of the Germans and Bulgarians and have taken sixteen villages, says the report from the War Office today.

The height of Mt. Bobishto, ten miles northeast of Monastir, has been captured and the Italians have reached the line Chatrit-Debrushovo-Musa Oba.

The Italians have taken numerous prisoners.

PARIS, Sept. 23. (Havas.)—Entente Allied cavalry yesterday was three miles from the Bulgarian frontier in the region of Strumitza, according to news dispatches received here today from the Macedonian front. The eleventh German division was reported to have been cut from the main Bulgarian army and to be retreating in disorder.

The news dispatches say the First Bulgarian Army in the region of Monastir and Prilep has been cut off from communication with the Second Army in the Doiran sector.

The Franco-Serbian troops are pursuing the Bulgarian army, which is in full retreat. The Entente Allies now command the mountain zone, from which they will be able to debouch in the plains.

LONDON, Sept. 23.—Serbian troops have cut the main railway line between Uskub and Saloniki and are on the western bank of the Vardar River, according to the Serbian official statement of Sunday.

West of the Vardar the Serbians have cut the railway line to Prilep, which is the main line of German communication in this region.

Serbian infantry units now are in the mountainous regions and advancing twenty-five miles in one day. The number of prisoners and the amount of war materials captured increases daily.

The neighboring German and Bulgarian sectors now are feeling the loss of their communication lines. Enemy reinforcements have been forced to retreat.

Since September 15 the Serbians have advanced forty miles.

LONDON, Sept. 23, 5 p.m.—The Serbians have captured between 9000 and 10,000 prisoners and 120 guns, the Evening Standard says it learns.

SOFIA, Saturday, Sept. 21 (via London, Sept. 23.)—An official statement from the Bulgarian War Office today reads:

"In the defile between the Cerna and the Vardar bitter fighting is continuing. Since the Anglo-Greek attacks of the last few days against our positions near Doiran were repulsed with losses by our valiant troops, the fighting activity on this front has diminished in intensity. In the valley of the Struma patrol engagements took place in No Man's Land."

The Serbian advance has been most marked between Cerna and the Vardar, where the Serbs have progressed forty miles.

The Turkish Disaster as Summarized by the Associated Press.

From north of Jerusalem to the Sea of Galilee in the territory lying between the River Jordan and the Mediterranean Sea, the Ottoman forces have been caught by the swift drive of the British armies and virtually annihilated. Added to the heavy casualties suffered by the Turks, hordes of them were made prisoners and many more are wandering bewildered, without leaders, in the hills, eventually to be brought in to swell the great total. At last accounts more than 25,000 of the Sultan's soldiers and 260 guns and large quantities of war stores were in British hands. To add to the demoralization of the Turkish morale, Allied aviators are carrying out successful bombing raids against Constantinople.

OFFICIAL REPORTS

WAR OFFICE SUMMARIES.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Sept. 23.—The British have captured a German strong point northeast of Epehy, which had resisted for several days, according to Field Marshal Haig's report from headquarters tonight.

British forces last night attacked the German lines between St. Quentin and Cambrai opposite Le Catelet, making progress in the vicinity of Tombois farm and capturing a group of trenches and strong points on the ridge northwest of Vendhuile, Field Marshal Haig announced in his earlier official statement today.

Another enemy strong point near the Ronssoy-Bony road, just to the south, also was taken by the British. A successful local attack was carried out south of Villers-Guislain.

German troops late yesterday counter-attacked in the vicinity of Gillemont farm on the front between Cambrai and St. Quentin, to the west of Le Catelet. The statement says the attack was repulsed with heavy losses.

Northwest of St. Quentin the Germans penetrated the British line at one point at Berthacourt during an attack. The position was re-established by a counter-attack.

On the front between Arras and Lens there was a continua-

HOUSE VOTES NATION DRY.

Senate Rider Adopted, 134 to 27, Amendments Being Defeated Promptly.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—National prohibition, effective July 1 for the period of the war, was approved tonight by the House, which adopted, 134 to 27, the Senate prohibition rider to the $12,000,000 emergency agricultural appropriation bill.

The measure now will be sent to conference for adjustment of differences between the two houses on appropriation items.

After voting in the committee of the whole to accept an amendment permitting the importation of wine until next May 1, the House later reversed its decision, and by a vote of 121 to 59 retained the original Senate provision that importation of wine must cease when the measure becomes effective upon its signature by the President.

The amendment was approved by the House Agriculture Committee to meet an objection by the governments of France, Italy, Spain and Portugal.

All efforts otherwise to amend the legislation were defeated. A proposal by Representative Kahn of California, Republican, to extend the effective date for prohibiting the sale of wine and beer to December 31, 1919, was defeated, 112 to 32, as was one by Representative Beshlin of Pennsylvania, Democrat, to change the date for stopping the manufacture of beer and wine from next May 1 to December 1, 1919.

California grape growers, who produce 95 per cent. of the domestic wine, will be unable to liquidate their business before wine sales are prohibited next July, said Mr. Kahn in offering an amendment extending the time to December 31, 1919.

Mr. Kahn said sales of habit-forming drugs are increasing in prohibition territory, and complained that the present law does not stop the sale of medicines containing large quantities of alcohol and drugs.

"The charge of drunkenness is not borne out by statistics," continued the California representative. "When you write this into the law, you indict the whole nation, and I resent that."

A plea for prohibition was made by Representative Rainey of Illinois, Democratic member of the Ways and Means Committee, who declared the committee had reached the conclusion that the government can be conducted without the revenues received from the liquor traffic. He praised the Anti-Saloon League for

ALL HUNS ON DEFENSIVE.

[SUMMARY BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

In all the theaters of war the Entente Allies have the initiative in their hands and are pressing their advantage rigorously. The Germans and their allies nowhere are able to do more than stand on the defensive. And in Palestine and Macedonia their efforts in this respect have proved sorry ones.

In Palestine the Turks are all but absolutely crushed; in Macedonia the Entente forces are harrying their foes and threatening them with similar disaster; in France the British and French troops slowly, but surely, are eating their way into the vitals of the German defensive positions, the collapse of which would result in important changes all along the western battle front, and in Eastern Siberia the Japanese have made additional strides forward in the process of reclaiming that territory for the Russians.

In the region between Monastir and the Vardar the enemy troops are in full retreat before the Italians, French and Serbians, while west of Doiran the British are steadily hammering their way forward, driving the enemy northward toward the Bulgarian frontier. Already the enemy line from Doiran to a point west of the Vardar has

MURDER IS REDS' JOY.

A Daily Slaughter of Russians.

Officers and Civilians Killed Upon Flimsiest Pretext by Soviets.

Arch Fiend of Bolshevik Terror is a Lett Drunk with Blood-Letting Power.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[ATLANTIC CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 22.—Renewed attempts have been made to assassinate members of the Soviet government in Russia, and as a result there will be fresh measures in reprisal, says a Moscow dispatch received here.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Appalling accounts of the excesses of the Bolshevist reign of terror in Russia are reaching the State Department daily from representatives of the American government abroad.

Following the appeal of the administration last Saturday to the Allies and neutral nations to take steps to end the anarchy in the ill-fated Russian republic, the State Department today made public the latest information obtained by government representatives from refugees are beginning to pour out of Russia by the thousands.

The latest stories told by these people are lurid to a degree. All the testimony is to the effect that the slaughter of representative Russians and former officers of the army is going forward on a wholesale scale. The most prominent men in hundreds of communities, men known even beyond the borders of their own country as liberals and opponents of Czardom, and the members of the Bourgeoisie are being shot without trial.

In practically every one of these cases, which are now numbered by the thousand, the only charge preferred against the victims of Bolshevism is that they are "dangerous to the Soviet." That is sufficient to cause the Bolshevist authorities to issue death warrants. The firing squads are described as working in relays day and night.

"One detail," says the State Department report, "is that officers are shot at night in cellars, the guns being muffled with silencers."

The arch fiend of the Russian terror appears to be one Peters, whose career is reminiscent of that of the French Revolutionist Barere, of whom Macauley observed: "The vices of honest men were the virtues of Barere."

Peters is the head of the extraordinary commission against the counter-revolution.

"He signs death warrants without reading the papers," says the State Department report.

Peters is a Lett, who has lived many years in England and speaks Russian with a strong foreign accent. He is pictured as a little blonde man, intoxicated with unrestrained power of life and death over his fellow-creatures and furiously signing death warrants as they are brought to him in batches.

Outside his headquarters the corridors are crowded night and day with peasants and workingmen come to deliver up the lives of their enemies, their landlords, their rivals in love and business as men "dangerous to the Soviet."

The unsupported word of the accuser is sufficient for Peters, who in the name of the Soviet republic decrees death before sunrise to the hapless victims of the proletariat.

The British and French consulsgeneral in Moscow are now under arrest in their residences, according to the latest reports to the State Department. Mr. Poole, the American Consul-General, and one of the few Americans remaining in Bolshevist Russia, has not been placed under arrest up to date, so far as is known and is being permitted to visit his British and French colleagues. The utmost anxiety is felt here for the safety of all of these officials.

Mr. Poole has acted courageously, and vigorously in protecting the Allied officials and for this has earned the unstinted praise of the British and French as well as the American government.

There is much speculation on the effect the Bolshevist excesses will have on the policies of the United States and the Allies in dealing with Russia. It is taken for granted there will be no further manifestation of tenderness for the Bolsheviki, who have been so thoroughly discredited not only by their reign of terror, but by Edgar Sissons's recent exposure of Lenine and Trotzky as the paid agents of Prussia.

The plight of the conservative elements of the Russian population calls loudly for succor by the Allies and there is every indication the response will be a material augmentation of the military expeditions sent into Siberia by the United States and Japan and into northern Russia by western Allies with a view to extending the area of control and breaking the power of the Bolsheviki.

NO REPLY YET.

The State Department has had no answer to the message sent last Saturday to the Allied and neutral nations in an effort to bring about a universal standing against the terrorism of the Bolsheviki in Russia. Secretary Lansing said today the action may result from the sending of the note without any direct response, inasmuch as some of the neutral nations, at least, have representatives in Moscow and Petrograd, and through them may bring pressure to bear upon the Bolshevik leaders to put an end to the reign of terror.

It became known today that the State Department for eight months prior to their publication had full knowledge of the documentary evidence of German control of the Bolsheviki recently made public.

SURRENDER TO JAPAN.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Sept. 23, 8 p.m.—Blagovieshtchensk, capital of the Siberian provinces of Amur, and Alexievsk have been occupied by Japanese cavalry, according to information received by the Japanese Embassy. Two thousand Austro-Germans were taken prisoners. They laid down their arms at Kokka.

The information, which was given out by the Japanese military attache, is to the effect that Blagovieshtchensk and Alexievsk were occupied by Japanese cavalry converging from Kharovsk and Tsitsihar, September 18. Troops moving up the Amur River reached Blagovieshtchensk the following day.

Kokka, where the Austro-Germans laid down their arms, is on the right bank of the Amur opposite Blagovieshtchensk.

Another enemy formation has retreated to the upper reaches of the Ziya River.

FRIENDLY TO RUSSIA.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

HARBIN, Thursday, Sept. 19.—A proclamation has been issued by the Japanese saying that its friendly feeling for Russia and not a desire to gain prompts Japan to help restore order here. The proclamation lays emphasis on the assertion that any one, regardless of nationality, causing disorders, will be severely punished.

It is believed the proclamation was issued because the people decline to accept notes carried by Japanese troops instead of Russian money.

LETTS TO ORGANIZE ARMY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Plans for the organization of a Lithuanian army in America under the direction of the United States were formulated here today at a meeting of Lithuanians at which Dr. John Szlupas of Washington, member of the Lithuanian Central Committee, presided. It was recommended that the army be sent to Murmanak or Vladivostok to aid in driving the Germans out of Lithuania and establishing an independent republic.

How to Judge a Woman By Her Hair

There is real common sense in just noticing whether the hair is well kept to judge of a woman's neatness, or good taste. If you are one of the few who try to make the most of your hair, remember that it is not advisable to wash the hair with any cleanser made for all purposes, but always use some good shampoo. You can enjoy the very best by getting some Canthrox from your druggist, dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water. This makes a full cup of shampoo liquid, enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just the top of the head. Dandruff, excess oil, and dirt are dissolved and entirely disappear. Your hair will be so fluffy that it will look much heavier than it is. Its luster and softness will also delight you, while the stimulated scalp gains the health which insures hair growth.

JEVNE'S

GERMANS FEEL DISASTER IN AIR.

Group Together Like People Afrighted; Hungry and Spirit Broken.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Sept. 23 (Havas.)—A neutral diplomat who has just passed through Germany declared to the Matin that the food situation in Berlin is so bad that foreign diplomats subsist exclusively on provisions sent to them.

The German people, crushed by recent events, seem like automatons, responding unconsciously to suggestions received. All spirit of initiative and free criticism is completely gone.

He concluded the summing up of his impressions with the following:

"Everybody wants to group together, just as before great disasters."

LIBERTY LOAN PLAN COMPLETE.

Wilson Sends Regulation Bill to Wilson.

Minimum Sum will be Exempt from Income Surtaxes.

Ten Installments to be Accepted Fourth Drive.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23. — Congress tonight completed and sent to President the administration bill designed to stimulate the sale of Liberty Bonds by exempting from income, surtax and war excess-profits taxes the interest on such bonds held by individuals and corporations in amounts not in excess of $30,000 of each issue, and $45,000 of the second and third issues.

The measure provides for regulation of foreign exchange, and authorizes an increase in the issue of Treasury Savings Stamps from $2,000,000,000 to $4,000,000,000.

The Senate and House conferees today agreed to the clause authorizing the President to prohibit in his discretion transactions in Liberty bonds that these bonds may be sold by the holders for cash or offered as collateral for loans.

The terms of the fourth Liberty Loan bonds and the maturities were announced today by the Treasury. The amount, probably $6,000,000,000, was decided on, but the announcement was withheld.

The interest rate will be 4¼ per cent, the same as that of the third issue. Bonds will be dated October 24, 10 days after the close of the subscription period, and the first interest payment will be made next March 15 and will be for the 173 days accrued.

Another semiannual payments will be made October 15 and April 15. On a $50 bond the first interest payment will be worth $1.01; on $100, $200, $500, $1000, $5000 and higher multiples accordingly.

Both coupon and registered bonds will be issued in denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1000, $5000 and $10,000. The $50,000 and $100,000 denominations will be registered.

Both the latest maturity periods for the first, second and third loans of twenty, twenty-five and ten years respectively, it was considered probable that the maturity of the fourth loan would be either fifteen or twenty years.

Twenty per cent. of the subscription price is required as the initial payment on the fourth loan. Twenty per cent. will be due as installment November 21, December 19 and January 16, and 30 per cent. January 30.

Terms of the loans were communicated today to the Bureau of Engraving and Printing and within a few hours 500,000 finished bonds were ready for shipment.

The bureau plans to print about $5,000,000 separate bonds for the fourth loan, with a larger proportion of baby bonds of the $50 denomination than in previous issues, in anticipation of a multitude of subscriptions from persons of small means.

The installment dates will not interfere with the practice by which many subscribers have bought bonds through banks or other agencies and paid 10 per cent. a month for approximately ten months.

Secretary McAdoo will make his first Liberty Loan address tomorrow night at Carnegie Hall, New York.

GERMAN POSTER SHOWN.

A poster issued by the imperial German government in an effort to belittle the United States' contribution to the war and bolster the failing spirits of its people has been reproduced by the Liberty Loan publicity bureau and 2,000,000 copies will be distributed during the fourth Liberty Loan campaign, which opens Saturday.

Intended solely for consumption within Germany, the poster will get far wider circulation, resulting in the enemy's publicity guns being turned on him. The poster was forwarded by an American in Switzerland.

"Can America's entry make a decision in the war?" is the poster's title. And with diagrams showing a small American army and a small merchant marine, the pamphlet inferentially answers, "No."

"Russia's army of millions could not down Germany," argues the poster. "America threatens to send transports of 500,000 men, but it can not ship them."

These words are inscribed on a scroll held by a cadaverous-looking Uncle Sam, alongside a Russian soldier appearing immense in comparison. At the time the poster was displayed throughout Germany last July more than 1,000,000 American fighting men already were in France, and this number soon will be doubled.

OUR TOY BOATS.

"England's sea power and England's merchant marine have not decided the war," says the poster. "America can not increase her gross registered tons for 1918 by more than 2,000,000 or 2,500,000 tons; our U-boats sink twice as quickly as America can build."

These lines accompany a diagram of Uncle Sam holding a toy boat, contrasted with a big ship representing England's merchant marine.

The poster also shows a great fleet of ships, more than twice exaggerated, represented as necessary to transport a single regiment. A French poster appealing to the French to save food in order to hasten the transportation of American soldiers is reproduced by the German sheet, with the comment, "Also the Allies are beginning to have their doubts."

Along the translation of the German poster, the circular issued by the loan publicity organization presents statements of fact refuting the enemy allegations and concludes with Secretary McAdoo's assertion that "the fourth Liberty Loan is the barrage which will precede the victorious thrust of our army."

In hundreds of communities today the Liberty Loan speaking campaign started, in an effort to gain momentum for the opening day, Saturday, when subscriptions will be received.

LOAN SPECIAL CHEERED.

Other points to be visited today are Centerville and San Jose.

The American Council on Education, in co-operation with the Washington Information Bureau of The Times, and with the approval of the War Department, has issued a list of questions and answers, giving full information about the Student Army Training Corps, which the government has established in colleges and universities in every State in the Union.

The government is offering this opportunity to go to college at its expense to all registrants who have a grammar school (eighth-grade) education, or better. A trade or a profession can be studied while the member of the corps is learning to fight.

The Student Army Training Corps offers unparalleled opportunity to the registrant who is capable of leadership, who has technical or mechanical ability, or who may want to serve his country with his brains as well as with his hands.

DAVIS AWAITS ORDERS TO GO TO LONDON POST

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BERNE (via London) Sept. 23.—John W. Davis, the newly appointed American Ambassador to Great Britain, today told the Associated Press that he was still awaiting orders from Washington regarding the Ambassadorship, but he hoped to conclude satisfactorily his present negotiations here concerning the transfer of American and German prisoners.

Concerning the negotiations with Germany for the exchange of prisoners, Mr. Davis said that, only after they had ended, would an official communication to the press be given out, since the negotiations themselves would be kept secret, as was the case in the Franco-German negotiations.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Senator Smith of South Carolina today issued the following statement:

Senator Smith is chairman of the Congressional group appointed to discuss the subject with the President.

"This initiative corresponds entirely with the aspirations of the Bulgarian government and people. The Bulgarian government hastens to express its readiness to send delegates to such a conference. We seek neither conquests nor the establishment of hegemony over our neighbors."

The note concludes with an expression of sympathy with President Wilson's views on the settlement of Balkan conflicts in accordance with the rights of nationalities.

One unit attacked Haumont itself. It engaged in sharp fighting in the village, taking twenty prisoners and killing and wounding some forty more Germans. The prisoners were members of a Jaeger battalion formerly stationed at Metz.

American patrols have discovered enemy trenches and a machine-gun emplacement south of Dommartin, which is in the Kriemhild line. The enemy continues work all along this front.

ON THE CANADIAN FRONT.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

WITH THE CANADIAN FORCES IN FRANCE, Sept. 23.—(By the Canadian Press.)—The week on the Canadian front has been one of active watchfulness marked by continued patrols and raids on both sides of the Canal du Nord. There is an evident intention on the part of the enemy to hold the east side of the canal to the end, as one of the remaining strong lines in his possession.

One post has been taken and retaken no fewer than four times, and the operations have netted the Canadians a number of prisoners, even the German raids resulting in prisoners to the Canadian forces. Aerial activity, both by plane and balloon, has been uninterrupted. Several German planes and balloons have fallen to our pilots. It is confirmed that the German pilots are using parachutes.

Our artillery has dominated the situation.

was composed of yeomanry and Indian cavalry, their objective being Afule, where Haifa railway joins the line from the south. Marching through Musmus pass during the night and securing 400 prisoners on the way they were opposed at Lelian, the ancient Megiddo, and beat off the enemy. Before advancing into the plain the regiment of Indian lancers acting as advance guards had an opportunity all cavalry desire.

A Turkish battalion was lightly dug in on a flat about two miles from the entrance to the pass. The lancers dashed out of the narrow defile, galloping over this plain of Armageddon and crashed into the infantry and machine gunners with the lance, killing fifty, wounding as many more and taking 410 prisoners. The charge was most brilliantly executed. Cavalry had to gallop over exposed ground against heavy rifle and machine-gun fire, but never faltered, each wave of horsemen riding through the enemy. Those not killed threw up their hands.

AFULE TAKEN.

The column then moved along the plain to Afule, which was won in a short time. The garrison of 1500 were captured and an immense amount of material taken. In the station were eight locomotives, two complete trains, forty horses and a great quantity of stores.

A portion of the column did not remain long at Afule. Turning eastward they proceeded up the valley of Jezreel to Gisan. Along the route and in the town they added about another 1000 Turks to their bag. One regiment was detached and took Jisr Mejamie, nine miles south of the Sea of Galilee to prevent any reinforcements coming by that road. Some of the cavalry of this column marched about seventy miles in two days. The Australian light horse with yeomanry and Indians captured Jenin almost midway between Afule and Samaria. They also had a long march and attacked Jenin from the north and west. On the western outskirts a Turkish battalion was intrenched and hotly opposed the light horse brigade. The latter recently armed with swords charged the trenches, sabering many and rounding up 1000 prisoners. There was fighting for Jenin all last night, but early this morning the place was entirely ours. Nearly 7000 prisoners in all were taken by the cavalry. The story of the cavalry told thus briefly was full of incidents. All the regiments showed great dash and staying power. Frequently fighting in a difficult country, no task was too heavy for them to undertake.

PARIS, Sept. 23. — French forces fighting along the line south of St. Quentin have reached the Oise River between Vendeuil and Travecy, according to the official statement issued at the War Office tonight.

French troops yesterday and last night made notable progress in their drive for encirclement of St. Quentin. They pushed in far on the south and captured the village and fort of Vendeuil, close to the Oise, nine miles southeast of St. Quentin, today's War Office announcement shows.

From Vendeuil the French pushed on to the river. North of Lynfontaine they penetrated the wood in the direction of Hinacourt.

The text of the official statement issued last night reads:

"South of St. Quentin we have enlarged our positions to the east of Hinacourt and Lyfontaine. We have reached the western outskirts of Vendeuil.

"North of the Aisne three counter-attacks by Germans were broken to the north of Allamant, and we have held our lines securely. We have gained ground east of Sanchy and have taken prisoners.

"Eastern theater, September 21: During the day of September 21 the French and Serbian armies have broken across the massif of Drachevishko. Serious resistance is being offered by Bulgarian rear guards reinforced by German troops.

"Allied troops have progressed to the north of Vezarci and Kavadar and reached the Vardar in the direction of Negotin and Demirkahu.

"The enemy has destroyed much property near Gradsko and in the region of the Vardar and Lake Doiran, where he has burned railway stations, depots, munition parks and aviation supplies. The number of prisoners and cannon captured has been augmented. Serbian troops have taken one group of mountain artillery complete and one battery of 105's.

"Aviation forces continue to harass the retreating columns of the enemy.

"On the eastern side of the Cerna Bend region enemy troops have begun to retire and Allied troops have taken Chaniste and Orle.

"In the region north and northeast of the Dzena massif French and Greek troops continue to progress with the Serbian armies."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Defeat of an enemy combat party sent out to locate American front lines southeast of Champ Fontaine farm on September 20 is described by Gen. Pershing in a communique today supplementing earlier details of the encounter. The enemy was scattered with casualties, while the American casualty was one officer wounded.

The dispatch, which is section B of the communique for Sunday, follows:

"Headquarters American Expeditionary Forces, Sept. 22, 1918:

"Section B: The following details have been reported of repulse of one of the enemy raids reported in the communique of September 20:

"At 5 o'clock morning September 20 an enemy combat party of two officers and 100 men, armed with six heavy and two light machine guns and preceded by seventeen minutes' artillery preparation, came from Dampitoux to the crossroads southeast of Champ Fontaine farm to establish an outpost, locate our front line and identify our troops. Our artillery barrage, quickly regulated to a concentration fire, scattered the enemy and inflicted casualties. Our infantry captured three prisoners and one heavy machine gun. Our casualty was one officer wounded."

BERLIN (via London) Sept. 23.—British forces to the east of Epehy, southwest of Cambrai, yesterday obtained a footing in sections of the German trenches, says the official statement issued today by the German general headquarters staff.

A slight advance of the German lines west of the Moselle is claimed. (This is the American front southwest of Metz.)

The repulse of strong detachments, which advanced against Haumont and elsewhere in reconnoitering operations in this sector, likewise is announced.

ROME, Sept. 23.—On the Asiago Plateau, on the Italian mountain front, French troops in a local attack have destroyed and damaged the Austrian defensive systems east of Mont Risemol, says the War Office official announcement today. The French captured 100 prisoners and five machine guns.

In a raid north of Asiago the British troops brought back prisoners.

VIENNA (via London) Sept. 22.—The official statement issued at the War Department today reads:

"Near Dosso Alto our storming troops made a surprise attack on a trench section, defended by Czecho-Slovak legions, yesterday. The greater part of the garrison suffered the fate they deserved.

"On the Albanian coast further Italian attacks were repulsed."

TURK CAPITAL IS BOMBED.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Sept. 23.—Constantinople was bombed by the British Royal Air Force Friday and Saturday of last week, according to an official communication issued by the Admiralty tonight.

The statement says:

"The Greeks co-operated in the bombing of Constantinopie on September 20 and 21 and dropped thousands of leaflets into Stamboul.

"A balloon shot down in the European operations in flames set fire to three hangars, which were burned out."

Machines of the British independent air force dropped nearly sixteen tons of bombs on German airdromes and on blast furnaces in the Metz region on Saturday night, it was officially announced today.

The blast furnaces attacked were those at Hagendingen and Rombach. Four enemy airdromes were bombarded by the raiders.

STAR HUN AIRMEN GONE.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 9.—(By mail to New York, Sept. 23.)—Germany's losses in the air now include many, if not most, of the star pilots whose names during the last year received continuous advertisement in the German communiques. Fourteen of the airmen credited by the German reports with the most numerous victories have been killed or captured.

Germany's adoption of advertising methods of all sorts of aerial performances by individuals has failed to provide the German air service lately with the stamp of pilot it desires.

The largely-increasing numbers of desertions from the German air service during the last few months is said to be due to a general lowering of morale in the service and dissatisfaction with a system by which it is alleged favoritism is shown to certain pilots.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—The Navy Department was advised today that twenty-one men of the crew of the American army cargo steamer Buena Ventura, torpedoed and sunk last Friday off the coast of Spain, still are unaccounted for. There were ninety-five men in the crew.

Six officers and thirty-nine men from the Buena Ventura were landed at Brest by a French destroyer, and two officers and twenty-seven men have been landed in Corunna, Spain.

The department's advices said the steamer was attacked about 8:30 p.m., being hit by torpedoes. It sank in six minutes. The submarine emerged after the attack and was described by survivors as being about 250 feet long and mounting two guns.

MORE GOOD THAN EVERYTHING ELSE

That's What Tanlac Accomplished in Her Case.

Mrs. Zachary Says It Helped Her Wonderfully.

Health Had Been Failing for Three Years.

"I was certainly glad when Tanlac was placed on sale here, for I had tried it last year while visiting in Texas and it did me more good than anything else I have ever taken," said Mrs. J. C. Zachary, of 533 West Fifty-eighth street, Los Angeles, the other day.

"Two or three years ago," she continued, "my health began to fail and it was not long till my whole constitution was broken down. I had no appetite and what little I ate gave me no nourishment, for I was unable to assimilate my food properly. My nerves were in a dreadful condition and I was so restless that I could hardly sleep. I was weak and tired all the time and felt so depressed at times that I was almost ready to give up.

"So many wonderful things were said about this new medicine when it was first introduced in Texas while I was there that I decided to give it a trial. After taking my first bottle I felt so much better that I kept it up and my whole nervous system responded to the treatment. I began to gain in strength and energy and it built me up something wonderful. When I returned home I tried to buy Tanlac here, but was unable to get it till a few months ago. As soon as I saw it advertised I got me a new supply and have been taking it through the summer and it has certainly put me in fine shape."

As has been stated before, there is not a single portion of the body that is not benefited by the helpful action of Tanlac, which begins its work by stimulating the digestive and assimilative organs, thereby enriching the blood and invigorating the whole system. Next it enables the weak, worn-out stomach to digest its food thoroughly, thus promoting the assimilation of the nourishing products to be converted into blood, bone and muscle.

It overcomes, it is said, that great exciting cause of disease-weakness. It renders the body vigorous and elastic. It keeps the mind clear and energetic and throws off the symptoms of nervousness and indigestion. It builds up the constitution weakened by disease and mental and physical overwork quickens convalescence and is an unfailing source of comfort to all suffering from such troubles. By increasing all the powers of endurance it enables those who use Tanlac better to encounter fatigue, exposure and overwork.

Tanlac is sold in Los Angeles, Pasadena and San Diego by The Owl Drug Co., under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative.—[Advertisement.

Less Meat Means Better Health

Meatless days will do as much to relieve sickness as to help Uncle Sam. Too much meat loads the blood with excess uric acid, weakens the kidneys and causes backache, urinary disorders, rheumatic pains and nervous troubles. If your kidneys seem weak, don't wait for severe troubles to seize you; lighten the diet a bit and use Doan's Kidney Pills. Thousands recommend them for just such troubles.

More Los Angeles Testimony.

Elbert B. Crouch, retired carpenter, 512 S. Ave. 21, says: "I was injured and as a result my back was weakened. When I took cold or worked too hard I had a dull ache across my kidneys. These organs were weak; being too frequently in action. Doan's Kidney Pills gave me great relief. I recommend them highly."

Prince Visits Washington Tomb.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Prince Axel of Denmark, who is in America as the guest of the navy, visited Mount Vernon yesterday as the guest of Secretary Daniels and laid a wreath on Washington's tomb.

Benny Leonard is Winner Over Ted Lewis by a Shade.

YANKEE TAKES WELTER TITLE.

Leonard Outpoints Ted Lewis in Five Rounds.

Lightweight Champion Fails to Score Knockout.

New Jersey Law Forbids a Referee's Decision.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEWARK (N. J.) Sept. 23.—Benny Leonard, the lightweight champion, had a shade the better of Ted ("Kid") Lewis, welterweight champion, at the end of their eight-round bout here tonight. No decision was given by the referee.

Under the New Jersey law governing boxing, no decision could be given by the referee, Patsy Kline.

Leonard outpointed his opponent in five rounds. Lewis had the better of two periods and in the other, the third round, honors were about evenly divided.

The men weighed in at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Lewis did not turn the scale at 141 pounds, the maximum weight on which an agreement was reached, and Leonard weighed 135½ pounds.

Leonard did not appear to be as fast as in previous battles, but he was speedier than Lewis. Both men were cautious.

In the first round Lewis landed a terrific straight right to Leonard's jaw which made him assume the defensive throughout the round, in which Lewis had all the better of the fighting.

Lewis had a bruise under his right eye when he came out for the second round, and Leonard lost no time in trying to increase the damage. Fast left jabs achieved this result.

The third round was pretty even, but in the fourth Leonard had a shade the better of his opponent.

Lewis finished up the round with a hard left to the body and a right to the head. This was Lewis's round.

Both were cautious in the sixth and in the seventh Leonard opened a cut over Lewis's left eye, drawing blood.

The eighth round opened with Lewis missing two rights. Benny hooked a left to the jaw and following with three tantalizing left jabs, hooked a left to the face and ducked two hard swings.

At close quarters Benny twice had the better of the fighting and dodged safely when Lewis rushed. Leonard tried to measure his man for a knockout, but missed by inches only, when he tried a swing for the jaw.

The bell found the men locked in an embrace.

HUNTING NOTES.

Ducks are pouring into the interior valleys of California so freely and so early that most of the hunters already are enthused and scrambling for licenses, ammunition, boots and the other "first-aids" for the wild-fowling sportsman.

Opening of duck season, October 16, falls on Wednesday, and is the next activity upon the calendar of the scatter-gunner. This year, the Federal migratory bird regulations are in full force and operation, with their flat prohibition of the sale of ducks, geese or other migratory birds. The State laws in all other respects harmonize exactly with the rulings of the United States. Violation has become a doubly-serious matter, however. Now, wardens can prosecute in State or Federal courts, under very stiff penalties.

Reports coming to the Fish and Game Commission from the vicinity of Buena Vista Lake, the Owens Valley lakes and sloughs, the Salton Sea and Imperial and Palo Verde valleys, and all along the Coast from San Luis Obispo to San Diego have told of a heavy flight of ducks for over a month. Bear Valley has been filling up with them, fattening on the wild buckwheat beds undisturbed. They will hang the first "sooner" up there.

Everywhere the birds are sprigs mostly. The spreading overflows of the gun clubs in the artesian belt back from the beaches of Orange and Los Angeles counties are attracting a good showing of these fine grain-fed birds, which fatten upon the waste after threshing, which they glean mostly at night. It is grain that otherwise would do humanity no good.

From the present plenty of ducks, many augur an early and heavy winter. This would have more weight if the coming of the ducks was not a regular thing at this season. Thus far the flight is no heavier than that of last season, but seems to average pretty well up to it, and thus indicates that the Federal law did a good and useful work by spreading the California conservation principle of stopping spring shooting at mating birds, wherein this State led the way for the whole Coast.

Doves are standing the gaff wonderfully well. They have had plenty of it to take, for the first two weeks gave licensed hunters five days and two half days that were virtually holidays for their use. Still there are doves, and in limit plenty, for those willing to walk and work for their shots as well as able to connect pretty regularly on the long, hard chances that the strong, wild birds of late September offer the gun. There is some keen satisfaction and a lot of good shooting in getting a limit nowadays, but it was done Sunday by quite a number.

Doves continue plentiful in Antelope Valley, but very wild from two months' hunting. A party of Los Angeles, Burbank and Santa Monica physicians drove to San Jacinto Saturday night to warm up the birds and listen to a little gunfire before leaving for the front, and managed to get some shooting. The doves had not all gone by any means.

Limit shooting is to be had nearer town, too, for those who know just where to go, and what to do when they get there.

been evacuated. This force of the enemy, with the railroad to the north severed, seemingly is in danger of an enveloping movement until it turns sharply eastward and presses into Bulgaria through the mountains.

The impetuous Serbs have advanced forty miles since September 15. Prisoners captured from the enemy are being added to as the progress northward continues, and the quantity of war material also is increasing.

The salient driven into the Bulgarian lines at Sokol has been widened until now the Allies are advancing on a front of nearly fifty miles, stretching from east of Monastir to the Vardar.

Apparently the Germans around Prilep are in a worse position than the Bulgarians at Doiran. To retire northward would be to move over virtual cow paths toward Uskub. The best roads lead east and west. To the east the retreat has been cut off, while to the west the roads run toward the border of Albania.

Not so spectacular, but of vital importance, have been the operations of the French and British from the south of St. Quentin to Cambrai. Both the French general, Debeney, and Field Marshal Haig have won highly essential ground in the maneuvers which have as their objectives the obliteration of the Hindenburg line, the capture of St. Quentin and the turning of the German line at Laon.

South of St. Quentin the French have advanced their line to the west bank of the Oise Canal over a front of three miles and now completely outflank St. Quentin on the south and La Fere on the north. Meanwhile Field Marshal Haig north of St. Quentin, around the village of Epehy, has taken strong positions from the enemy.

In Eastern Siberia the Japanese have captured Blagoveshtchensk, capital of the Province of Amur, and also the town of Alexoevsk, 5000 Austro-German troops surrendered.

In Palestine Gen. Allenby has captured more than 25,000 prisoners and 260 guns, and continues to push forward between the Jordan and the Mediterranean coast.

The advance has carried the Allies past the village of Nazareth and they are approaching the line of the ancient city of Tyre. To the north is Beyrout, while off to the northwest, seventy miles away, is Damascus. These two cities are important centers in this region of the world and their capture would mean the complete disorganization of the Turkish machinery of war over a wide area.

Present operations, both in Palestine and Macedonia, may have political results far outweighing the military objectives that may be gained. There may be some truth in persistent reports that Bulgaria and Turkey are ready to retire from the war and the dynastic situation in Bulgaria is said to be such that, with King Ferdinand virtually retired from active administration, sensational developments may come at any time.

BRUNDAGE CAPTURES TITLE

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—Avery Brundage of the C.A.A., the former University of Illinois athlete, added another championship to his list of victories today by winning the national A.A.U. all-around championship from a field of eight starters in the feature event of the third day of the national championships held at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station under the auspices of the Chicago Athletic Association.

Today's victory marked Brundage's third victory in the all-arounds. He won the title in 1914 and 1916, and won the event today with a total of 6703.50 points; J. Hellum of the Pastime A.C. of New York City, who won the Decathlon four times in Norway, finished second, with a total of 6419 points; E. J. Thompson of the Royal Air Forces of Toronto, Can., was third, with 6152 points, and Earl Gilfillan, formerly of Notre Dame University, who is now in the service at the Great Lakes, was fourth, with 5123.25 markers.

The all-around championships were featured by the record-breaking performance of Knourek in the pole vault. This sterling athlete cleared the bar at 12ft. 8in., which is a new individual record for the event in championships. As a reward for this vault the bluejacket was given 1032 points, thirty-two points more than the perfect percentage.

By winning the event, Brundage gave a remarkable exhibition of energy and strength. None of his performances was brilliant, but they were consistent enough to give him the title by a comfortable margin. Unlike the other athletes, the C.A.A. representative was not weak in a single event. He conserved his energies in the field events by putting all his strength in the first effort, so that he could rest while the contest was being completed.

In winning the highest individual athletic honors in the country, Brundage won the shotput and 56-pound weight, tied for first place in the half-mile walk, tied for second in the running high jump, tied for third in the pole vault, finished second in the hammer throw, fifth in the mile and third in the running broad jump. He finished second in his heats in the 100-yard dash and 120-yard high hurdles.

Shortly after the first event had started it was apparent the honors rested between Brundage, Hellum and Thompson. This trio soon went into the lead and increased their lead over the rest of the field with every event. After three events had been completed the C.A.A. athlete led by a narrow margin, which he increased as the meet went on.

Brundage's victory was a popular one. He demonstrated beyond all doubt he was the class of the field which competed for the national all-around honors. Since leaving college Brundage has been a member of the Graduate Managing Committee of the Western Conference and at present is its president. He has done a lot to help athletics in the conference and is the only practical man on the committee.

The Illinois Athletic Club and Pelham Bay Naval Station divided honors in the championship relays, the former taking the two and four-mile, while the bluejackets captured the half and mile. Great Lakes won the quarter-mile relay after a close finish with the C.A.A. quartette.

The victories of the Illinois Athletic Club in its two relays were due to the running of Joie Ray, who took up the going on the last pick-ups, yards behind. In the four-mile event he started eighteen yards in the rear and finished twenty-five yards in the lead. In the two-mile he started fifteen yards behind and won the verdict for his club by five yards.

Pelham's victory was well earned. Most of the runners ran in both relays and certainly showed their class. They led from start to finish in both events. In the one-mile event the C.A.A. led on the first two relays, but Mdrchinson of the Great Lakes beat Frank Loomis of the C.A.A. to the tape in the last century.

Today's events brought the national A.A.U. outdoor track and field championships of 1918 to a successful close. They were well conducted by the Chicago A.A. and the out-of-town athletes left for home tonight. They were liberal in their praise for the games, which rightfully can be said to have been the best ever held in this country.

440-yard relay: Won by Great Lakes (Dove, Erickson, Murchinson.) Chicago A. A. second, Pittsburgh Scholastic A. A. third. Only three teams started. Time 1m. 29 2-5s.

Two-mile relay: Won by Illinois A. C. (Kochanski, Gerald, O'Donnell, Ray.) Pelham Bay second, Great Lakes third. Only three teams started. Time 10m. 26s.

One-mile relay: Won by Pelham Bay (Desch, Ferrick, Durnell, O'Brien.) Meadowbrook Club, Philadelphia, second; Great Lakes third. Time 3m. 36s.

880-yard relay: Won by Pelham Bay (Desch, Smith, Dernell, Clark.) Federal Rendezvous second, Chicago A. A. third; Great Lakes, fourth. Time 1m. 31 3-5s.

Two-mile relay: Won by Illinois A. C. (Johnson, Fuerestein, O'Donnell, Ray.) Pelham Bay second, Meadowbrook Club, Philadelphia, third, Great Lakes fourth. Time 8m. 17 2-5s.

VERNON PROGRAMME LOOKS LIKE HUMMER.

A well-balanced boxing card has been arranged for the regular weekly show at the Vernon arena tonight. Weldon Wing will meet Al Grunan in the main event and Charlie Roselli meets Kid Mende in the semi-wind-up. Grunan and Wing have met once before, Wing winning a rather easy decision.

Grunan has been given a return match because he was off form in the previous bout and because of his victory over Tommy Richards, who gave Wing two great battles. With Grunan in the shape he was in when he met Richards a few weeks ago, he should give Wing the toughest kind of a battle.

There is considerable interest in the Mende-Roselli bout. It will be the first meeting between the two boys and both have beaten the best of the local 118-pounders. Mende is the harder hitter of the two and has had more experience, but Roselli is a good boxer and a clever ring general for a youngster. Mende's slugging and willingness to mix it against Roselli's cleverness and ring generalship should result in an interesting battle.

Red Mathews, who never fails to make a regular battle will take on Howard Waters. Kid Layman and Jimmy Berry, who have put up some tough scraps, have been matched and Frankie Monroe will take on Young Papke.

There will be but two big fellows on the card, Joe Pena being matched with Jack Clark. The latter was the class of the local middleweights some time back and his bout with Pena promises to be a rough affair from start to finish.

THRIFT STAMP PLAY.

The first Thrift Stamp golf tournament of the Brentwood Country Club resulted in E. J. Waddell winning over C. L. Bundy by a score of 5 up, 4 to go.

GRAND CIRCUIT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

COLUMBUS (O.) Sept. 23.—Ideal racing conditions ruled today for the first time since the present Grand Circuit meeting started. The programme furnished interesting racing save for the free-for-all pace. Only three pacers started. A battle was expected between William and Miss Harris M., with Peter Nash in the field to do the best he could against his faster rivals. William broke his chin strap in the first heat and was badly distanced. Miss Harris M. after two easy miles, paced the third heat in 2:01¼.

Billy Jackson took a new record of 2:04¼ in the 2:15 pace. Every one of his heats was paced in the same time.

Hollyrood Kate defeated the favorite, Selah Baird, in the 2:09 trot, dropping only the third heat. Lon McDonald drove the mare in the absence of Joe Dodge and won his third race of the Grand Circuit season behind the roan mare in 2:07¼.

Omonde, owned by V. V. Martin of this city, won the 2:20 pace. Wood Patch won the first two heats, Omonde then coming on and capturing the race in 2:08¼. Judges did not like the drive of Mr. Loomis behind Wood Patch in the third heat and Heddrick was put behind the pacer.

W. H. Parish of Grand Rapids, Mich., sold Helena Guy, 2:14¼, to Billy Crozier of Hartford, Ct., today for a price reported to be $5000. Mr. Crozier purchased the trotter for an eastern patrol.

Four stake events are on Tuesday's programme, in which a total of $19,000 will be paid to winners.

These fellows who can't take enough time before shooting to see whether a deer has horns or not are still getting trouble in large $50 assessments. Deputy Fish and Game Commissioner Jack Barnett of Ventura put two across last week.

THIRTEEN-YEAR-OLD IS STAR AT TENNIS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BOSTON, Sept. 23.—Miss Helen Hooker, 13-year-old New York girl, upheld the reputation which metropolitan junior lawn tennis players have made this year by defeating Miss Lillian Coffin of Johnston, R. I., 6-2, 6-3, in a first-round match in the woman's tournament on the Longwood cricket courts today. Among those who advanced by winning were Miss Molla Bjurstedt, the national champion, and Miss Eleanora Sears.

M'MILLAN BACK IN TOWN ON FURLOUGH.

Walt McMillan, former self-government president of Manual Arts and varsity football man, has returned on furlough to Los Angeles sporting the gold bar of a lieutenant. McMillan enlisted in the service and was sent to Berkeley, soon winning a commission. He will return there in a couple of weeks, serving as instructor for the new recruits.

After October 16, all being bothered with superabundant ducks are asked to communicate with the Fish and Game Commission, which is in touch with a small army of licensed hunters, which will consider it a pleasure and a privilege to make the said sprigs so scarce about the parts bothered that they couldn't be found with a search warrant. All the hunters want is a chance to harvest some of this wild meat, which Uncle Sam has now said belongs to the amateur with the energy and ability to get it, having removed wild game from affording a livelihood to its would-be professional exterminators.

GRIDIRON GOSSIP.

The gridiron workout at the University of Southern California yesterday afternoon was an event unique in local football history. A party of inquisitive and enthusiastic specta ventured into the wilds of West Jefferson street in the middle of the afternoon, and, after circumnavigating the park and finding the secret entrance so cleverly hidden near the tunnel, were treated by the awe-inspiring and heart-rending sight of George Mager engaged in mortal combat with about an acre of devil grass, the same having grown all over the handsome surface of the gridiron.

Close inquiry developed the fact that pending word from Washington regarding the time for training there will be no practice, and it is believed that all of Mauer's hortatural efforts may have gone for naught. It is believed that definite word will be received from Washington this afternoon which will enable Coach Cromwell to marshal his imposing army of candidates and start pursuing the pigskin. It may be admitted, however, that no one full of corn-fed athletic could be a bit more thrilling than Mager's brave single-handed combat against the pesky devil grass.

Fred Johnson, who used to play quite a game of football for Occidental College when he was this end single, will sic his Hollywood squad of gridders on the representatives of Alhambra High School, bearing the latter in their own den, so to speak, by invading the well-known suburb of San Gabriel this afternoon. Alhambra C. of C. please write.) Mr. Johnson has inherited a wealth of material unsurpassed among the local schools, and his opening engagement this afternoon will enable us to get a line on his talent.

Coach Sid Foster of Manual Arts has demonstrated his discretion by calling off the scheduled game between his talent and the eleven from the Submarine Base. Sid, after looking over the hospital list of the Base, called the game off before they put six men in the hospital. A friendly scrimmage among themselves, how many of the opposition would they massacre when engaged in a real game? Sid thought it over and then said he didn't think his team was quite prepared to play the 'U-boatmen.

Glen Whittle, the tall blonde Boy who presides over the grid prospects at Los Angeles High School, has so many strangers in his lineup that he has decided to play a game with Santa Monica High on Friday afternoon in order to get a line on his material. The Santa Monica opponents because the local school is so close to the beach that it won't be far to walk if the boys lose their car fare betting on the game.

With 116 pigskin aspirants turning out on the field for daily practice at Fresno State Normal Manual Arts High School hopes to build up a formidable football team. For three weeks the Artisans have faithfully donned the regulation togs and practiced formations, kicking, etc., and should be in fine shape to take on the San Pedro High team Friday for the first game of the season. Santa Monica will come in for its turn on October 5.

The letter men who returned to school and will form the nucleus of this year's team are Capt. Charles Erb, Mel Lipmann, Walt O'Brien, Bob Cole, Pete Hoffman, Cotton Sutton, "Babe" Leadingham, Ellis Evans, Willie Blewett, Ellingsworth Eperson, Darrel Hufford, W. Appel, Bob Rhodes and Dick Pope. Jimmy Cunningham of Lick's will play half, and Goodrich, from Iowa, and Bill Chapman from Ohio, will each hold down a guard position. Chapman is temporarily out of the game on account of a wrenched shoulder, sustained in a practice scrimmage, but will soon take his place on the field again.

COMPLETE TENNIS MEET THIS WEEK

(LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.)

REDLANDS, Sept. 23.—The tennis tournament at the Y.M.C.A. courts here will be completed this week and there will be some hot matches in the finish of the tournament. The best match so far was that between Leslie Gay and Carl Lydie, which was won by Gay, 6-3, 7-3, 6-4.

R. D. Williams defeated Guy Daniels in the semifinals, 6-1, 6-1; Warren Roach defaulted to Clarence Hersee defeated Roach, 6-2, 6-1; Hersee beat Gay, 6-2, 6-1; W. Tillotson won from Dow, 7-5, 6-1; V. McMinn lost to Holmes, 6-2, 6-0; Holmes beat Tillotson, 6-2, 6-0; Holmes probably will be defaulted to Hersee, 6-4, 6-0. The finals probably will be played on Thursday afternoon.

Better Buy Service Than Beg Favors

A woman, who for many years had carried on her business affairs by seeking free advice, around a circle of her business friends, brought the whole burden to the Security Trust & Savings Bank for administration as a Living Trust.

"And all the time," she said, "I never realized what a nuisance I must have been to men, bothered with their own business affairs—but who never failed to give me and my affairs every courtesy and consideration. NOW, I PAY for the service I get. The fees are small, but if they were four times as great, the feeling of independence and self-respect would make them worth while."

This experience is worth thinking about when you are considering asking advice about investments, or making a Will, or naming an Executor, or Trustee, or Guardian. It is OUR BUSINESS to do these things—and to do them well.

PROTESTS JORDAN SPEECH.

Belgian Vice-Consul Says He Called Hun Atrocities "Exaggerated."

Formal protest against an address delivered last Friday before 1500 pupils of the Los Angeles High School by Dr. David Starr Jordan, Chancellor of Stanford University, was made yesterday by Charles Winsel, local Belgian Vice-Consul, to Felix Deion, Belgian Consul-General at San Francisco.

"It has been reported to me," said Mr. Winsel last night, "that during the course of his address Dr. Jordan said: 'The stories of German atrocities to Belgian babies have never been proved.' If that statement is not true, and the Belgian, French and British official reports, including the Bryce report, give the sworn testimony of cruelties by Germans to Belgian children.

"There is now in Los Angeles George Vranges, a recruiting officer of the Serbian army who saw with his own eyes at Lille, France, a Belgian mother, with one arm cut off at the shoulder, and her baby with one hand,—both cut off by German soldiers."

Dr. Jordan, who has been spending a week at the Hotel Alexandria and delivering his lecture attacking Pan-Germanism, could not be reached last night.

Miss Oliver, vice-principal of the Los Angeles High School, who was present at Dr. Jordan's lecture, said in part:

"As I recall it, Dr. Jordan said he personally had not run down the stories of reported atrocities to Belgian babies, but he went on to say that the Germans had done much worse things than any reported atrocities and were capable of doing those. The latter, to my mind, was a very severe attack on Germany and Germans.

"Mrs. Anna Stewart, vice-principal of the High School, said in part:

"I heard Dr. Jordan speak at the Auditorium, and my recollection is that the only Belgian atrocities that he spoke of were the reports of children's hands being cut off. He said he had traveled in Belgium, and that in all his travels he was unable to learn of any authenticated cases of this kind. He referred to this simply incidentally, and the address was thoroughly pacifistic."

Miss Perry, head of the department of English at the High School, also heard Dr. Jordan's talk.

"It was an uncompromising condemnation of the entire German system," she said at his residence last night. "He contrasted it with the ideals of free America, where government exists for the citizens, and the German ideal conception of society, in which men are cogs in a wall.

"He also spoke of the Belgian children, saying that he traveled through Belgium but was never able to find one who had actually suffered such a case where a child's hands had been cut off. Everyone whom he questioned had been told about the story by someone else, he said.

"I feel very strongly on what I consider the height of German atrocity,' which was the taking of Belgian men and women able to work and sending them to Germany, making them virtually slaves. He considered thus depriving them of liberty the height of atrocity. He also condemned the German system of subjugation of provinces. He did not speak of any other kind of atrocity beyond the cutting off of children's hands—he could not, as it was a mixed audience composed largely of girls and women teachers.

"I have heard Dr. Jordan speak many times on similar subjects," Mr. Perry added, "and he has always been vigorous in his denunciation of Germany and her methods."

According to Carlyle Tilroe, editor of the Blue and White, the school paper, Dr. Jordan's address gave a general resume of the causes of the war, stating that the German government was directly responsible for the present world conflict.

"If anyone tells you that England started the war, it's a lie," was the opening remark made by Dr. Jordan, according to Mr. Tilroe.

"He further spoke of the German intrigue and causes leading up to the war," the editor continued. "While speaking of the intrigues of the German court, Dr. Jordan said, 'The Kaiser is the most egotistical person I ever saw or believed to exist. He had a passion for soldiers and he had soldiers of his own. He gave the military to understand that they were not the country's soldiers, but his soldiers, even if they must fight against the country.'

"Speaking of the Belgian atrocities the chancellor said 'The Belgian atrocities are, I believe, greatly exaggerated. The reports of the hands of children being cut off and other wise mutilated have never been proven.'

"Dr. Jordan also told of conditions in Metz and other Alsatian and Lorraine towns before the war as he saw them while in Europe."

MAYOR LOSES TONSILS.

Operation at Hospital Successful, but Week's Rest Advised by Physician.

Mayor Woodman underwent an operation at the Good Samaritan Hospital yesterday, his tonsils being removed by a specialist. He was under the influence of an anaesthetic only half an hour and his condition last night was reported to be excellent.

It is expected the Mayor will be removed to his home tomorrow, but his physician has advised him not to return to the City Hall for a week.

ATTORNEY DISBARRED.

Charges Against W. J. Hittson are Found Substantiated by Court.

Judge Monroe yesterday ordered the disbarment of W. J. Hittson, an attorney of this city, holding that three of seven counts in the accusation of the Los Angeles Bar Association were sufficient for disbarment, or any one of the three.

Mr. Hittson was accused of accepting money from clients and failing to use it for the purposes intended. He denied the charges. The Bar Association was represented by Attorneys Frank C. Collier and Henry G. Bodkin.

FOOTBALL ACCIDENT.

First of the Season Sends Lincoln High School Player to the Hospital.

The first serious football accident of the year occurred yesterday in a practice scrimmage at Lincoln High School when Phillip Schlucher, 16 years old, suffered a fracture of the right arm just above the elbow. At the Receiving Hospital, where he was given emergency treatment, he was informed that his hopes for a "letter" this season were on the wane. He will be out of the game for several weeks.

COURT BAILIFF TAKEN.

Tom Murphy, Once Sailor, and for Many Years Deputy Sheriff, Expires at 72.

The picturesque career of Tom Murphy, bailiff in Judge Shenk's court, came to a close in the Clara Barton Hospital Sunday night. Mr. Murphy, sailor and soldier, had lived beyond the allotted life of threescore years and ten. He was 72 years old, and within a few months of his death was a vigorous man. As a young man he sailed before the mast. During the Civil War he entered the army.

For sixteen years he had been a deputy in the Sheriff's office, in his later life being transferred to the courts as a bailiff. He never married. Under Sheriff Hammel he was a jailer for several years. His remains were taken to Bresee Bros.' undertaking parlors.

SEEKING BRUBAKER.

The assistance of the Federal government may be sought to secure Delbert M. Brubaker, a local real estate broker, wanted here on the charge of being interested in an alleged fraudulent real estate deal involving $25,000. The complaining witnesses against Brubaker are Mrs. Rosina E. Phillips and her sister, Miss Julia Brittingham, who reside at No. 726 Ottawa street. They claim that Brubaker obtained control of much of their property and swindled them out of large amounts of money.

TELL OF MONTH OF BANDITRY.

Hora Brothers Confess to Many Hold-ups.

Crime Trail Reaches Across the Continent.

Killing of Father Justified by Coroner's Jury.

Admitting that for the past month they have been automobile bandits, Frank Hora, 18 years old, and his wounded brother, Arthur, 20 years, yesterday made a joint confession to Deputy Sheriff F. W. Modle. The confession was read at the Coroner's inquest at El Monte yesterday afternoon after Modle had told the story of the capture of the bandits and the gun fight which followed during which Modle was forced to shoot and kill the young bandits' father, Charles Hora, 48 years old, who had that night, according to the confession of the boys, for the first time volunteered to go out with them and try the bandit business. The Coroner's jury returned a verdict of justifiable homicide.

The confession was given coolly by the young men, and Frank, the youngest, sat in the undertaking rooms and listened without emotion while it was read, while across a few feet away sat his mother, a frail, gray-haired woman showing a life of work and worry.

The Sheriff's office investigators say that for the past year and a half the two young men have been stealing automobiles, taking some of them to their garage, which they have lately owned at No. 3898 South Park avenue, tearing them to pieces, and selling the rebuilt and disguised cars. Thefts are charged against them in States as far East as Pennsylvania and in other counties of this State and they made at least two trips East, the boys say, to New York and the East, where they sold their stolen cars, and on one of their trips their parents went along. They went into the bandit business as such about a month ago, according to the confession.

In the confession which was read by Coroner Hartwell the young men were first told that they need not say anything.

"What is the sense of keeping anything back now?" said Frank.

Then the confession proceeds, as given by both young men:

THE CONFESSION.

"We have been here about ten years, our family being father, mother and Frank and Arthur. We came from Paterson, N. J. I (Frank) was arrested two years ago in San Diego for stealing an automobile. As it was my first offense I was put on probation.

"We started out a month ago to 'stick up' automobilists. In all that time we had taken in about $250. One time we robbed four men and got $15; another time $5. My father got on to what we were doing lately, that is, that we were 'sticking up' people, and on Saturday said he would go out with us and try it. He is 48 years old. We first went out Foothill boulevard and stopped a car with four Japs—two men and two women. This was about 11 o'clock. Father held the gun, I went through the people, and my brother turned our car around. We raised $15. Then we struck off for San Bernardino and held up the four men and raised $5. One had a watch but I (Frank) handed that back. On our way back as we were passing through Whittier we looked back and saw a car coming after us, and we knew they were sheriffs and if we did not stop they would blow us to pieces. So we stopped."

The rest of the confession retells the account given in yesterday's Times of the men starting back under arrest in two cars, of the hidden gun behind the seat, of the father trying to rescue his sons, and of the shooting of the father by Deputy Sheriff Modle.

WIDOW IS WITNESS.

At the inquest which was held at the undertaking rooms of J. M. Schanel at El Monte the first witness was Mrs. Charles Hora, widow of the man who went out on Saturday night for the first time to join his sons as bandits. Mrs. Hora and her sons are of an unemotional type and made no demonstration on seeing each other.

"I did not know what my husband and sons were doing that night or in the past. I must find some work now," she said after the hearing.

The witnesses besides Mrs. Hora included Deputy Modle, who told the story of the chase and the shooting, and Dr. A. F. Wagner of Pasadena who told of the wounds the dead man had received and said that he died of gun shot wounds in the chest. The Coroner signed the certificate of the verdict of justifiable homicide returned by the jury.

The confession was a joint one made after the shooting and the arrests by Arthur and Frank Hora. It was typewritten yesterday and before being taken to El Monte, Frank was brought to the Sheriff's office, where it was read over to him and he signed it and later it was taken to the hospital, where Arthur also signed it. The only reason given by the boys to the officers is that of the money they made, that it was easier than hard work.

PIONEER :: TOTTERS :: ON :: THE :: BRINK.

Serried Battlements to Replace Crumbling City Hall Tower.

When the tower is removed and replaced by a mere ornamental top, indicated by the black ink-lines. One of the worst crumbling parts is shown in detail at the left, the arrow indicating its place in the main structure.

Like a Samson shorn of his locks, the City Hall is to be shorn of its glory—the mammoth tower at its northwest corner, which has been a notable landmark on Broadway since 1887.

But, unlike Samson's, this loss will add strength to the structure and eliminate a situation of danger. Seven hundred and fifty tons of conglomerate brick and cement, forming the upper seventy-six feet of the great tower, are to be pulled down. With this change, says Superintendent of Buildings Backus, the City Hall will be able to withstand the onslaught of climatic attack or ordinary seismic disturbances until Los Angeles is in a position to put up a modern structure for its municipal home.

Official action was taken by the City Council yesterday, authorizing the removal of the upper section of the old tower. While there have been disparaging reports concerning the stability of the tower for several years, the earthquake of last spring, which wrecked San Jacinto and Hemet, caused such damage to the tower, that it has been closely watched. At that time it listed to the southward to such an extent that cornices were fractured and new cracks were opened, tiles were loosened and copings were jarred so that with the coming of the first storm, a few days ago, they absorbed sufficient moisture to increase their weight to the dropping point.

The tower is 20x20 feet on the inside, and it rises to a height of 183 feet. The upper portion will be taken off, down to the level of the cone of the main building's roof. The new top of the tower will then be finished off with small turrets and battlements. The cost of the work is estimated at $6000. It is to be done by the J. F. Hall & Martin Company, with the city furnishing the materials.

The City Hall was started in 1888 and completed in 1887. When the great tower was completed it was visible for miles, as that was long before the era of skyscrapers on Broadway. It looked down upon blocks of residences, with extensive lawns and tree-lined streets. Across the street from it stood the old First Methodist Episcopal Church—formerly old Fort-Street Church. Beside the tower, on the north, stood a Jewish synagogue, and at the southeast corner of Second and Broadway was located the First Presbyterian Church. Stretching down Broadway from the southerly side of the City Hall there were pretentious residences, and the first encroachments of business concerns were making themselves apparent.

The walls of the City Hall tower average three feet in thickness, and they are formed of a monolithic mass of brick and cement, with an outer wall of red sandstone. At the upper sections of the tower to provide for ornamental work, the walls spread out to fifty-four inches in thickness. The architects were Clausen & Haas, the old perspective showing that their offices were at "No. 14 North Spring street."

DUE VEY CALLS IT A FRAME-UP.

Felon Accuses Detectives of Conspiracy.

Says He "Confessed" to Get Lesser Sentence.

Benkert and Flood are Held to Higher Court.

While the preliminary hearing of Robert A. Benkert, an attorney of this city, and C. P. Flood, charged with forging checks on a Long Beach bank, was in progress before Justice Forbes yesterday, the District Attorney's office received a confession from Carl R. Due Vey, now in prison at Folsom, where he is serving time of his acknowledgment that he committed the crime. Due Vey now declares that his confession was untrue, and made because representatives of a detective concern persuaded him that it would be to his profit to maintain that he had forged the checks.

Flood and Benkert, who are charged with forgeries totaling $9381.55, were held by Justice Forbes to answer to the Superior Court. Flood's bail was fixed at $7500, which was furnished, and Benkert was released on his own recognizance, as he is held for trial on another case involving the charge of forgery.

In Due Vey's confession he says that he was arrested here on suspicion of having committed grand larceny, and was then identified as an escaped convict from the Arizona State Penitentiary at Florence.

He says a detective from a local agency went to see him at the local police station and proposed that he do exactly as this detective and the representative of another detective agency told him to do, and that this would prevent his having to go back to the Arizona prison.

"TOLD TO CONFESS."

Due Vey says he was told to confess that he was a forger and had passed two checks, amounting to the sum of $8580, these having been drawn on the Farmers' and Merchants' Bank of Los Angeles and the Exchange Bank of Long Beach; that he should identify the paying tellers when they appeared before him, and that he did so confess and identified the tellers, although they did not recognize him.

He then details the proceedings which finally took him before the Superior Court. He was sentenced to Folsom for from one to ten years.

He declares that he was induced to make the confession because he was afraid to go back to Arizona, and because the detectives promised him that after he had served one year in prison here they would get him out on parole and would have the case in Arizona dismissed.

"I also was induced with promises to say that I was a safe-blower, which I did, but which was not true," says Due Vey in his statement.

He further says: "My reason for

WILL EXPOSE UNPATRIOTIC.

Los Angeles will have an investigation department as well as a vigilance committee for the fourth Liberty Loan campaign, according to an announcement made yesterday by Henry S. McKee, chairman of the Liberty Loan Committee.

All solicitors and Liberty Loan workers who come in contact with any instances of what they believe to be an unpatriotic spirit, an expression of sympathy for the enemy or evasion of the just duties of citizenship for reasons of personal selfishness or greed are requested to report it at once in writing to the investigation department. This department will be in charge of a director, whose duties shall be to thoroughly and impartially investigate all cases brought to his attention. Cases of unusual aggravation where people refuse to buy fourth Liberty Loan Bonds, and, who are capable of assisting the government, in the judgment of the director of investigation, shall be referred to the Vigilance Committee.

After investigation by the Vigilance Committee, and it is found that the offending and unpatriotic parties still maintain their unpatriotic stand, full public exposure of all the facts in the case will be given.

Publicity Director Janss announced yesterday that the fourth Liberty Loan special war exhibit train will arrive in Los Angeles next Friday, the day before the starting of the loan, at 4 p.m., and will be open to the public during the evening. This train is carrying whole carloads of trophies fresh from the battlefields of France, returned American soldiers and marines and a naval band of twenty-five pieces. The band will give a military concert during the exhibit. The parking place of the train will be announced later.

After hearing a patriotic speech by Leslie Henry, the Municipal Offices Committee yesterday perfected preliminary arrangements for the campaign for the fourth Liberty Loan. City Treasurer Powell will continue as general chairman of the organization and will be assisted by forty-one subchairmen, who are heads of that many municipal departments.

During the last campaign the city employees subscribed $286,000, considerably more than their quota. This time they will strive to get total subscriptions of more than $500,000.

Mr. Henry, who is one of the most eloquent of the local orators speaking in the interest of the Liberty Loans, said, in part:

"Intensification must be the watchword of the hours between now and the ultimate victory. Inspired by this policy, we shall have 3,000,000 more Americans in the trenches by next July, with 1,000,000 more in the back areas as reserves.

"The 100,000,000 of us at home will not only increase our loans of money and credits to the government, but will even more radically curtail our domestic consumption of materials and labor to the end that the government's increased purchasing power will be without competition from us and will place behind those 5,000,000 men in France our full material strength.

"The earliest victory is the cheapest, both as to expended man power abroad and distorted industrial, commercial and social conditions at home. In the light of this statement, only the weakling in spirit and the unintelligent will argue for a moment that an increase in the amount of the Liberty Loan over what its predecessors have been is an 'added burden.'"

FATHER QUINLAN IS TAKEN

Rev. Father William F. Quinlan, pastor of St. Andrews, the largest and, until a few months ago, the only Catholic parish in Pasadena, died suddenly in the Sisters' Hospital yesterday from heart trouble. He had been in the hospital two weeks on account of the illness, but the attack was so slight it was thought he had practically recovered, and he was about to return to his charge.

Father Quinlan was one of the best-known and most popular clergymen in the diocese of Monterey and Los Angeles. He had been pastor of parishes in Bakersfield, Watsonville and San Diego before coming to the Pasadena parish in 1905. He was a native of Ireland. The body of the pastor will lie in state at St. Andrew's from tomorrow afternoon until Thursday morning, with an honor guard of the Knights of Columbus, of which order Father Quinlan was an active member. He also was a member of the Pasadena lodge of Elks. Bishop Cantwell will be celebrant at mass when the funeral is held at St. Andrew's Thursday.

PLAN UNITED FUND DRIVE.

War Work Campaign Outlined for the Southland.

Representatives of Societies in Conference Here.

Nearly Five Millions to be Raised in State.

To discuss plans for the raising of California's $5,000,000 quota of the $170,500,000 united war relief fund of the Y.M.C.A., Y.W.C.A., National Catholic War Council, War Camp Community Service, Jewish Welfare Board, Salvation Army and the American Library Association, a meeting of the Southern California representatives of these societies was held yesterday at the Alexandria.

Two sessions were held. In the morning speakers from the war front told of the need of national co-operation with these seven recognised organizations which are doing welfare work in the camps and at the front, and which have been asked by President Wilson to combine their several lines of activity into one for the coming national fund drive, which is to start November 11, when the Liberty Loan campaign is over.

It is planned to carry the message of war service into every home in the Southland. Yesterday's meeting was the last of ten held by the Pacific division, one each being held in every Western State, with the exception of this and Washington, where two convened. The other California convention was held Saturday at the Palace Hotel, San Francisco.

The method of procedure throughout Southern California will be somewhat as follows, according to tentative plans formed yesterday afternoon: County workers will convene at the call of a Y.M.C.A. representative, selected because that organization has recently consummated a drive and is familiar with campaign work. This representative may either be the president of a local Y.M.C.A. organization or the county leader. He will then get together representatives of the seven organizations in his district.

No definite canvass will be made until after the fourth Liberty Loan drive, and full organization plans will not be complete until early in November, it was announced. Presiding over the meeting yesterday afternoon was Lyman P. Pierce of San Francisco, the campaign director of the western department. Herman W. Frank acted as chairman. The morning's chairman, however, was George W. Marston of San Francisco. Miss Bertha Combe of the New York division of the Y.W.C.A. told that her organization is caring for 1,500,000 women workers in gas mask factories by housing them and providing recreation for them. Mrs. Richard Emerick, a refugee from Turkey, told of the heroism of women workers in French munitions factories and of the necessity for funds for civilian and war relief. Milton J. Ferguson of the American Library Association told of the work of his society in placing 500,000 books in each cantonment at home and of sending more than a million volumes overseas.

The State committee, working in conjunction with the National Campaign Committee, of which Raymond B. Fosdick is chairman, comprises Jesse W. Lilienthal of the War Camp Community Service, chairman; George W. Marston, Y.M.C.A.; Dr. John F. Slavich, representing Archbishop Hanna of the National Catholic War Council; Mrs. Lawrence Draper, Y.W.C.A.; Henry L. Mayer, Jewish Welfare Board; Lieut.-Col. W. C. Lee, Salvation Army, and Milton J. Ferguson of the American Library Association. The California headquarters are in room No. 610 Flood Building, San Francisco.

TO START NEW SUIT.

When the appeal of the Dunkley Company of Kalamazoo, Mich., from the imposition of costs amounting to $3130, assessed against the corporation by Federal Judge Trippet, was continued in Judge Bledsoe's court yesterday, it became known for the first time that the Michigan corporation is preparing to sue the California Packing Company, in the New York Federal Court.

The decision of Judge Trippet was adverse to the claim of the Dunkley Company to exact royalties from the Pasadena Packing Company, the court holding that the Dunkley peach-peeling patent was not being infringed upon. It is understood that the issues in the eastern case are almost identical with those involved in the local hearing, and that many of the witnesses who testified here will be subpoenaed by the New York court. The models of the various peach-peeling devices will be sent to New York for the hearing.

EASTON WINS IN SIXTY-FIFTH.

Pedrotti Beaten for Assembly in Official Count in Contest.

George M. Easton, who contested the Republican nomination of Joseph L. Pedrotti for the office of Assemblyman in the Sixty-fifth District, on the ground of errors and that votes cast for Mr. Pedrotti should have been cast for him, won the contest before Judge Taft yesterday. The result of the judicial canvass showed that Mr. Easton received 470 votes and Mr. Pedrotti 459 votes, a majority of eleven votes.

The returns by the election board gave Mr. Pedrotti a majority of thirteen votes. During the counting by the court the count was nip and tuck, which kept the friends of both parties on edge. It was evident that a few votes either way would decide the contest. The votes in twenty-nine precincts were counted—from Nos. 49 to 59, Nos. 261 to 269 and Nos. 676 to 684. Leo Youngworth represented Mr. Easton.

MOTHER-IN-LAW BLAMED IN SUIT

Said to Have Taken Son Away from His Wife.

Attorney in Alienation Case Tells of Letters.

Defendant Ordered to Pay for Spouse and Child.

Mrs. Maybelle Schley, who before her marriage to William G. Schley, a student of osteopathy, was known as the prettiest girl in Kirkesville, Mo., was in Judge Avery's court yesterday seeking support for herself and infant child. Mrs. Mary Evans, the mother of Mr. Schley, was also in court, and during the hearing it was apparent that the pending trial of Mrs. Schley's suit against Mrs. Evans for the alienation of her son's affections will be hotly contested.

Griffith Jones, attorney for Mrs. Schley, made it clear that one of the features of the trial of the alienation suit will be an attempt to show Mr. Schley hiding behind his mother's skirts. In fact, Mr. Jones said yesterday that from certain letters in his possession, he would show that Mrs. Evans actually took her son from his young wife. Attorney George Greer objected strenuously to trying the alienation suit in alimony proceedings.

Mrs. Schley testified that since the separation on the 10th inst., Mr. Schley had contributed $10 to her support. She said that during their brief married life, her husband had received an allowance of $100 from his mother. Mr. Schley stated that the allowance came from his stepfather, and that a telegram had been received saying it would be reduced to $60 a month. Further, the telegram indicated that if the quarrel between the young couple continued, it would be cut off, he said.

Mr. Schley is now taking a postgraduate course at the University of Southern California, but on October 1 he expects to be called to the Medical Corps of the United States Army.

The court said that if the allowance was cut off it might be a good thing, Mr. Schley would then get out to work. He ordered him to pay $50 a month for the support of his wife and child.

Mrs. Evans is said to be very wealthy. It is understood that one of her objections to her daughter-in-law is that she is not of the same social level. The young wife's father is said to be a County Recorder in Kirkesville.

APPROVES HANDLING OF ESTATE OF GEN. OTIS.

Judge Rives of the Probate Court yesterday approved the final account and ordered the distribution of the estate of the late Gen. Harrison Gray Otis to his daughters and grandchildren. The estate was represented by E. N. Martin, administrator, and the proceedings by Attorney Arthur Crum.

The heirs are Marian Otis Chandler and Mabel Otis Booth, the daughters of Gen. Otis; Marian Otis McPherron-Hammond, and Lillian A. McPherron-Leaf, grandchildren.

DRAFT BOARDS RUSHED.

Hundreds of Questionnaires are Mailed; Officials Issue Warning.

Foreign registrants who do not speak English, or who desire advice in filling out their questionnaires, may secure aid gratis at the Amelia-street, Macy-street and other schools located in the foreign quarter every evening after 6:30 o'clock, or at the headquarters of the State Immigration and Housing Commission in the Union League Building, according to an announcement made last night.

Foreigners have been exploited by shyster lawyers who have charged them money for advice given, and the commission is endeavoring to correct this practice.

Questionnaires are being mailed out at the rate of from 300 to 600 a day by the eighteen city and eight county draft boards. The local board members yesterday warned registrants that these questionnaires will be sent to the address given on the day of registration. On account of the confusion and unusual amount of work thrust upon the boards in the present draft, no account can be taken at this time of change of address. If a man has moved since September 12, the day of registration, his questionnaire will go to his former address and not the new one. On account of this several of the boards have asked that registrants watch their former residences.

The time limit for returning questionnaires is seven days from the date stamped on the front page of the questionnaire. Provost-Marshal-General Crowder, however, asks that men registered return the documents as soon as possible.

FOR MEN 19 TO 36.

The only questionnaires being sent out at the present time are for men between the ages of 19 and 36, and men in other ages than these need not expect to receive the documents until the President makes the second call in the 18-45 draft. The next call, according to bulletins received here, will be for all men in the draft not included in the 19-36 class.

It was estimated yesterday that 30,720 men in Los Angeles city will have been sent questionnaires by Saturday, 14,140 in Los Angeles county districts and 1565 in Pasadena. According to one method of estimating, one man in seven will be put in class No. 1, the total from the city and county in the 19-to-36 class would be about 6700. However, the local board members say that the former standard of about 30 per cent. of those registered will hold good, and that approximately 13,000 will qualify from among the 46,500 in the city and county who are now getting their questionnaires. It was pointed out that more men have prepared to be called, should they be needed, and that this will greatly swell the numbers. Over 5000 are being sent questionnaires by board No. 17, the largest in the city.

MISTAKEN CHIVALRY.

Secretary McAdoo's remarks about "mistaken chivalry" were referred to yesterday by E. H. Bagby of Board No. 17, who called attention to the fact that if a man does not claim exemption or deferred classification on grounds of being in a necessary commercial, industrial or agricultural occupation, the company which employs him may make such claim within a specified time. This provision is made to offset any ideas of "mistaken chivalry" regarding the making of a just claim for exemption, and so as not to cause men more useful at home to be sent abroad.

A general meeting of medical examiners for local boards, members of medical advisory boards and medical members of the district exemption board, has been called by Adjt.-Gen. Borree for Friday afternoon at Blanchard Hall. The medical men to attend will represent all local exemption boards in the ten Southern California counties. Another such meeting will be held for the northern district in San Francisco during the week.

Lieut. Henry H. Sherk, medical aide to the Governor, will address the meeting, and matters of importance regarding the coming physical examinations will be discussed. The meeting was at the suggestion of Dr. Granville McGowan, chairman of the medical advisory board; Dr. William Duffield, president of the Los Angeles County Medical Association; Dr. Stanley P. Black and Dr. E. Avery Newton, State Council of Defense.

IMPORTANT MATTERS.

Among the important subjects to be considered will be filling of vacancies of medical advisers and examiners, the standardizing of examinations and uniform rulings, and to lessen the possibilities of rejections at camps of men because of physical disqualifications. Transportation will be provided to Los Angeles for one medical representative of each local board.

Word was received yesterday by the district exemption board that the five members will be expected to name shortly one of the alternate advisers to the district board. The board names the man who will advise with the board on claims for deferred classifications on grounds of financial, commercial, educational, hospital work, public health and other activities not covered by the other advisers, who deal with industrial and agricultural claims. Dr. John R. Haynes has been mentioned as the adviser on industrial grounds. The district board members have not considered who will be named by them, nor has the Department of Agriculture named an adviser.

Word was received yesterday by the district board that the State Commission of Immigration and Housing will co-operate with the boards of instruction for registrants, being organized, for the establishment of schools to teach alien registrants to speak English. This will facilitate work in training camps.

Announcement was made by members of Board No. 5 that registration certificates for those who heretofore had not received any, are now in the mails. The board ran out of certificates, and about 125 registered before temporary cards were printed. Now the cards are being sent out. If a registrant has no registration certificate and does not receive one in the mails, he should call at his board headquarters.

CHANGES HIS MIND?

Merritt Sugar-hoarding Case Goes Over, Though Prosecutor Says Guilty Plea was to be Made.

When Hulett C. Merritt, the Pasadena millionaire, faced United States District Judge Bledsoe yesterday on a charge of violating the food conservation law by hoarding 500 pounds of sugar at his home; his attorney, C. W. Pendleton, offered a demurrer to the indictment, and asked that the matter be allowed to go over for the plea of his client until Saturday.

Assistant United States District Attorney L. Young said that he had supposed an agreement had been made that Mr. Merritt was to come into court and plead guilty at the time of the arraignment, but Mr. Pendleton denied such an understanding of the matter.

Though Mr. Young maintained that the agreement had been made with the son of the attorney, it was ordered that the case go over as requested.

CITY ADVISED TO DRIVE FOR FOREIGN TRADE.

After visiting the harbor yesterday, Prof. W. E. Aughinbaugh of the foreign trades department of New York University declared it has a bright future. He said, however, that the city should begin at once a campaign for increasing foreign trade.

Prof. Aughinbaugh was accompanied on the trip by President Gordon and Traffic Manager Matson of the harbor department.

ADMITTED TO BAR.

The District Court of Appeal yesterday admitted the following applicants for admission to the practice of the profession: Olaf G. A. Hoestedt, William R. Mygatt, Fay Lloyd Brown, George B. Colby, Mrs. N. A. Courtright, Dana T. Smith and Charles L. Hardy.

FINDS LOST JEWELS CONCEALED IN HEDGE.

Diamond rings, valued at $3000, tied in a handkerchief and concealed in a hedge, were recovered yesterday by Mrs. Blanche Sargent, wife of a local real estate man.

Mrs. Sargent reported to the police ten days ago that the gems had been stolen, but while walking along the hedge at her residence, No. 1236 Shatto place, yesterday, she found a lost handkerchief and discovered that her precious rings were tied within it.

He is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa and Nu Sigma Nu fraternities. He is the only son of Dr. and Mrs. F. H. Pritchard of Colton, who attended the wedding with half a hundred other guests. REVIEWS.

PANTAGES TO PALACE.

GOOD VAUDEVILLE AND PICTURES THIS WEEK.

Pantages.

Pantages offers a surprising number of really classy features. "Ocean Bound," a B. D. Berg production, with a real comedian, a very pretty soubrette, several other hard-working principals and a dashing chorus of pretty and well-shaped girls, is billed as a "musical splash in two dips," and it really is all of that. Blackface Eddie Ross pokes his corked visage out of the wings, and there is a broad smile over the whole house. All he has to do to bring forth a hearty laugh is to just stop for it.

Anderson and Rean have a laughable sketch. "The World in Harmony" is a typical Pantages discovery—five good singers, representing the white, yellow, red, brown and black races. Fashions de Vogue is a novelty.

Burbank.

Carlyle Blackwell becomes a Houdini or Alexander the Great at the Burbank this week by escaping from all kinds of prisons and complicated situations in "By Hook or Crook," his latest photoplay, that is featured along with five vaudeville acts. The picture is highly interesting from the first scene to the final fade-out, being one of those crook stories that furnishes any number of heart throbs and exciting moments. Evelyn Greely is the feminine star.

The vaudeville portion of the programme offers just as much entertainment as "By Hook or Crook." Thelma Thelmare, songster superb; Starr and Starr, in an eccentric comedy; Marjorie Carville, charming danseuse, in original dance creations; Belmont and Layton, in "Odds and Ends of Vaudeville."

Hippodrome.

There is a lot of action at the Hippodrome this week. Three exceptionally good acts, featuring acrobatic prowess of one kind or another, are on deck. Binns and Burt are clever trapeze performers, who combine their celebrated "wrinkle eraser" in their net; Seror is a Frenchman who dares anything on the high bars; Selbini and Giovini are two artists who come direct from the New York Hippodrome, and their juggling, hand stand and other feats are worth seeing.

"Days of Long Ago" is a quaint musical novelty that has pretty girls, good voices, costumes that tell of the minuet and the courtly graces, and is reminiscent of our grandmother's days. Fletcher and Terre just have a few laughs tucked up their sleeves; the Cosmopolitan Trio know how to sing; Billy Bernard and Charlotte bring along a big scream, "The Cabby and the Fare."

Victory.

A double programme that gives its patrons more than their money's worth, to say the very least, is the offering at the new Victory for Monday and Tuesday only. The stars of the bill are Louise Huff in a delightful love tale called "The Other Dear Charmer," and Mary Miles Minter in her latest comedy drama of everyday life, "The Eyes of Julia Deep." Both productions deserve headline honors, as they offer just the right amount of laughs and heart throbs from dramatic situations that are essential to any good picture.

For the new bill, opening Wednesday, Mr. Hulsell has booked charming Margarita Fisher in "Money Isn't Everything," and another feature of equal magnitude.

Superba.

"For Husbands Only," Lois Weber's latest contribution to the field of cinema art, was given its first Broadway showing at popular prices at the Superba Sunday. This newest starring vehicle of Mildred Harris, the "Linnie" of "The Price of a Good Time" and "Sydney Page" of "The Doctor and the Woman," was one of the most talked-of-plays of the season when it ran one week at the Kinema several weeks ago. In response to continued public demand, Manager Matthew Bridge of the Superba broke his cast-iron rule of first-run films only, and booked "For Husbands Only" for a return Los Angeles engagement.

More or less risque situations have been skillfully and delicately handled by Lois Weber in her plot construction; the action is of the mile-a-minute variety, yet with exceedingly subtle depths.

Clune's Auditorium.

Only five more days remain in which to see Theda Bara in "Salome," the William Fox production that has been playing to packed houses at Clune's Auditorium for the past two weeks.

There never has been a picture at Clune's that has created the good impression that has been left by "Salome," in spite of the fact that it is not a war picture and different from most of the releases that are shown today.

The grandeur that was Jerusalem and the glory that was Rome—both are blended in the majestic scenes of "Salome." Also the lavish extravagance and the whited sepulchre of richness that meant decay.

De Luxe.

Dorothy Dalton will appear tonight and tomorrow at the De Luxe in her great war-time film, "The Kaiser's Shadow." This timely drama of international intrigue and Germany kultur contains a gripping story that holds one's undivided attention to the last flicker on the screen. Miss Dalton has a large following of admirers among the patrons of the silent drama, and this splendid photoplay has added many more, for the popular star handles a most difficult role in a delightful manner. Sessue Hayakawa will charm the crowds Thursday and Friday in his pleasing drama, "City of Dim Faces." This is one of the famous Japanese actor's best pieces, and his admirers will be delighted with his splendid new role.

Palace.

Patrons of the Palace are being given a big treat this week, as the house has booked an exceedingly fine programme. David Wark Griffith's great screen achievement, "The Great Love," stirs the spectators to wild bursts of applause, and young and old alike follow the adventures of a young American soldier with keen interest, each picturing in his own mind some loved one who might be going through similar adventures. Mr. Griffith, with his marvelous understanding of human nature, has presented in his usual vivid style a photoplay that proves to be a little piece of real life transferred to the screen. The story is replete with thrills and excitement.

FLASHES.

JUST FROM TRENCHES.

NEW JUVENILE LEADING MAN FOR MOROSCO.

By Grace Kingsley.

Arriving in town yesterday as the newly-engaged leading juvenile of the Morosco is no less a person than Wilfred Young, well-known New York actor, who has just returned from the trenches in France, where, with other players, he spent seven months in entertaining the soldiers.

The players, consisting of Ivy Troutman, Teresa Dale, Mary Young, Wilfred Young and a number of other actors, report having traveled up to the front-line trenches, where, on one occasion a bomb exploded within twenty-five feet of the players. The company was playing "Baby Mine," and the farce was staged in all sorts of unheard of places—sometimes out-of-doors, sometimes under canvas, and at one time it was played on a stage improvised from tables. At another time the company was permitted to visit a quarantine island, where many of the soldiers had been for seven or eight months, during which time they had not seen a woman.

Mr. Young is well known in the East, where he appeared with Valeska Surratt in musical comedy, in various Cohan & Harris shows, and in "Madame Sherry." Since his return from the trenches he has made a short tour in the East, playing the leading role in "The Man Who Stayed at Home."

"Mary's Ankle" is proving such a big hit at the Morosco that the piece appears to be in for a run.

Orpheum.

If you like to see dancing, you may treat yourself to fifty-seven varieties at the Orpheum this week. Everybody on the bill dances, with or without reason—so that when Mme. Lina Reggiana, the La Scala prima donna, enters, you almost expect even her to drop into the Dreamy Dip or the Girly Glide.

By the by, stepping from the warm and opulent atmosphere of grand opera into the chill rigors of vaudeville is a trying experience for any singer, but Lina Reggiana took the step gracefully, even if a trifle timidly, yesterday. A touch of novelty is given her act when following her first song, after she has her audience in hand, she seats herself on a sofa, continuing her song there. She scored in all the grand opera selections presented, especially the brilliant "Bell Song" from "Lakma," which was sung easily, in crystal-clear and exquisite tones. The closing number ends a bit abruptly, so that her audience hardly knew she was gone, and therefore did not give the applause they doubtless would have done otherwise. This can easily be remedied.

To us to whom the phonograph was once a matter of marvel and mystery, the whimsical imagining of Barto and Clark, a boy and girl, in which the pair are concealed in phonograph cases and talk mysteriously from that cover, detailing their adventures while they were being "rented out," is delightful. The couple appear after a bit of dialogue and singing and put on some pleasing dances to phonographic music. The act is styled "Columbia and Victor," and scores a hit.

Kennedy and Rooney played rough stuff on the piano and said the danger point. At any rate, he is exactly what we want in comedy and we can never have enough of him—which makes him resemble, once more, those above-mentioned cakes.

There are a hundred funny situations, and one of them, the last one, is so excruciatingly new that you gasp while you laugh. Consider it! To avoid their pursuers, the hero and heroine descend to the bottom of the sea in suits built for divers, with enough oxygen to keep them palpitating for an hour, and there they are "alone at last." There, presumably, they kiss each other through glass. And we know that glass barriers can never keep love out, since the stone kind couldn't do it.

Such is "On the Quiet," with Barrymore, Loses, Al Hickman, J. W. Johnston, Frank Belcher, Lois Meredith and Helen Greene making all the noise.

D. W. Griffith,
Whose "The Great Love" is showing at the Palace.

"Sauce for the Goose."

More comedy along the local Rialto. This last one on the list also is taken from a stage play, "Sauce for the Goose," by Bonner and Boyd, and it shows at Tally's Broadway, with Constance Talmadge in the role of the clever goose who prepared a mess of pungent sauce for a wandering gander.

Kitty Constable was married to an author named John. This scribbler did not know how clever she was, since she was pretty and petite. So he turns for "appreciation" to a vamping lady of some age and much experience, till Kitty can't stand the strain another minute. She thereupon prepares a dish of nauseous jealousy for friend husband, using, as chief ingredient, the old standby in such culinary emergencies, another man. The second gander is nothing loth, for he has a penchant for pretty married ladies.

And out of this little plot grow situations the most amusing and the most unexpected, many of them approaching near-tragedy. But the resourceful Kitty is equal to each and every one of them, and she finally saves her husband from his asininity, besides thrusting a willing lover into the arms of an unwilling vamp. Thus everybody is made happy.

Constance Talmadge is a born comedian. She has the archness and the simplicity, the lightness of touch and the good looks, and she works with a charming intelligence. Harrison Ford ably abets her as John in "Sauce for the Goose," and all the other characters are well placed.

Are you feeling blue? Try "Sauce for the Goose."

Garrick.

A thoroughly appealing and human little story is that portrayed by Bessie Barriscale and Howard Hickman in "The Cast-Off," at the Garrick this week. Strange how these stories of real appeal come without any huge fanfare of trumpets, while some cheap and tawdry tale is ballyhooed from the housetops!

To be sure, there's nothing startlingly original in the tale, but the manner of its doing by Miss Barriscale, first as the helpless little girl left to the care of a boarding-housekeeper, afterward as the clever and ambitious woman of the world—a character carefully and thoughtfully built up by Miss Barriscale—who cherishes her childhood wrongs, but whose schemes of revenge on those who mistreated her in youth are bent aside by a poignant array of circumstances, makes the story most vivid and appealing.

A good picture, illustrating the fact that stories can be very real and convincing, and yet clean and wholesome.

Julia Blanc Ill.

Julia Blanc, who played one of the leading roles in the musical comedy, "Up in the Air," at the Mason a couple of weeks ago, is ill in the Angelus Hospital as the result of an operation for appendicitis performed last Thursday. She is reported as convalescing rapidly.

Devi will Give Recital.

Mme. Ratan Devi, famous interpreter of East Indian music, who was one of the bright particular stars of the recent "Light of Asia" production at Krotona, and who was injured in an accident at that time, so that she has spent the last nine weeks in the hospital, suffering from a fractured knee, is recovering, and expects to be able to give a recital of British folk songs and Indian music in the near future.

FILMS.

"THE HUN WITHIN."

STIRRING PROPAGANDA PICTURE AT GRAUMAN'S.

By Antony Anderson.

Of the making of propaganda pictures there is no end, these days—and let there be no end till the flag of freedom waves over Berlin! The most of these films are good pictures, too, and a few of them are corking.

The latest from the Paramount-Artcraft studios, "The Hun Within," is one of the very best in the bunch, a photoplay with a story that stirs the beholder to a high enthusiasm in patriotism, and to a burning desire to stamp out, at once and for all time, the slimy snakes in the grass that parade, on two legs and in the shapes of men, as loyal American citizens, even while they are stealthily plotting the destruction of their native land. Such are some of the characters in "The Hun Within"—Karl Wagner, Krug, Krippen, Max. All of these receive their just deserts before the story ends, for Uncle Sam has developed a long arm and a strong hand—and a very keen eye.

The photoplay also shows us the fine nobility of the most of those Americans who are of German descent. No finer character than Henry Wagner, that splendid old German-American, has ever appeared in fiction or film. The part is notably well acted by George Fawcett. The recreant son, Karl, is played by Charles Gerrard, past master in the portrayal of smooth villains.

Of course there is a love story, and a very charming one. Since Dorothy Gish is the heroine, you can imagine how full of natural and innocent comedy some of the situations are. Opposite her is Douglass MacLean, in the role of Frank Douglas, a youthful secret service agent of our government.

There is an excellent cast throughout—Bert Sutch as Krippen, a German diplomatic agent; Max Davidson as Max, a servant; Lillian Clarke as Leone, a German spy; Robert Anderson as Krug, a treacherous sailor; Eric von Stroheim as Von Bickel, and so on.

"On the Quiet."

Rampant comedy prevails at Clune's Broadway this week. The hero-in-chief is Jack Barrymore, and the photoplay is a clever picturization of Augustus Thomas's big stage success, "On the Quiet." That play has made a million laughs, and the pictures will undoubtedly do likewise, if not more so. Chet Withey, who directed "The Hun Within," also had his fingers on the quick pulse of "On the Quiet."

When Jack Barrymore enters "comedies," there is, as we all know from experience with his fun, no let-up on the laughter. He is as natural as a buckwheat cake, as sweet as the honey you pour on it, and as wholesome as—but perhaps this is stretching the metaphor to

MANUAL ARTS TO BE NEW EVENING SCHOOL.

BOARD ORDERS OPENING TO HANDLE POLYTECHNIC OVERFLOW.

One new evening high school has been opened and a second is contemplated. At Manual Arts High School classes to take care of the overflow registration in certain of those of Polytechnic evening school have been started, the work being largely along mechanical lines. According to the Board of Education, there is a demand for evening classes in a number of lines at Jefferson High School, which, it is said, can be installed as soon as the lighting system is completed.

The work at Manual Arts evening school will comprise courses in automobile mechanics, electrical construction, French, woodshop and general mechanical work, including mechanical drawing. Considerable equipment has been left by the government from the emergency war training squad, stationed there during the summer vacation period, which will undoubtedly be utilized as the work offered is of a utility, win-the-war type.

Two minor changes will be made in the conduct of the departments under Etta P. Flagg, supervisor of home economics. All so-called "penny" lunches are to be changed to cafeteria. Nothing will hereafter be sold under 2 cents, the change being made, it is stated, on account of war conditions. In addition all-day nurseries in some of the city schools of the poor district will have a daily charge of 5 cents per child, the money thus raised being used for the food materials served there.

SUE FOR LEGACIES.

Rebecca, Helen, Irene and Marguerite White, through their guardian, Harry R. White, filed suit yesterday against R. F. Del Valle, Nannie C. Northcraft, executor and executrix, under the will of Rebecca A. White; Nannie C. Northcraft, Helen M. Del Valle and W. H. Poston, trustees, and the Title Insurance and Trust Company, to recover judgment for $4000 covering legacies left to the plaintiffs, about which there seems to be a dispute. The plaintiffs are the grandchildren of Rebecca A. White, who, it is alleged, bequeathed them $1000 each. The latter died December 12, 1915.

IN THE BEGINNING.

Our charities and philanthropies are fine and wonderful things; but if the world is to be made safe for democracy there's nothing to match up with a good mother.

HITTING THE LINE.

College boys will be permitted to play football as much as usual this fall. They can paint the pigskin to look like Von Hindenburg's bean and then blithely chase it across the line.

STILL COMING.

Another thing that might interest the German General Staff is the fact that there are 600,000 Boy Scouts in organized groups in America—and plenty more coming. In their long distance figuring have they taken this into consideration?

FILLING A VOID.

And now the Union Pacific is experimenting in the use of women in loading freight cars. By the way a woman can pack a trunk she may be able to show a few surprises when it comes to filling one of Mr. McAdoo's box cars. If it is something that could be done with a hatpin a woman could do it, anyhow.

NOT MUCH SYMPATHY.

The Home Guards and the Boy Scouts took the place of striking policemen in Cincinnati and there was no trouble. It seems to be getting harder and harder to work up sympathy for any strike or body of strikers. About the only strike that could raise three cheers would be if the German army were to knock off on account of the hours required by the Kaiser.

ONLY HALF RIGHT.

A philosopher recently remarked that men get drunk because their mentality or experience has failed to provide them with a constant source or subject of intoxication—as, for instance, a great grief or joy, a lofty ideal or a consuming ambition. The theory is open to question. It has been noticed that those people whose lives are seemingly replete with grief, joy and genius are the very ones who fall oftenest and hardest from the water wagon.

CRADLE ROBBERS.

The Germans have already called their class of 1920 boy reserves to the colors and they are all in active training or service. There were only about 400,000 of them and as a class they seem to be a pale and puny lot of boys compared with their original forbears. They are unmistakably undernurtured, and the conditions under which their childhood rounded to a close were such as to stunt both their physical and moral development. Anyone but a Kaiser seeing red would weep at the spectacle of this pitiful army of weaklings being hurriedly pushed forth as gunfodder.

HAPPY, THOUGH RICH.

"There's a man worth half a million dollars, yet he sticks to his office day in and day out as if he were poor as Job's turkey. Why doesn't he take a rest and give some poor man his job?" For two reasons, Mr. Cynic: First, because nobody else could do his work for him, and next because he wouldn't want any one else to do it. Most men who would willingly assume the responsibility of his office couldn't be trusted to do an honest day's work anywhere. Besides, this man has earned both his wealth and position and in the meantime he has acquired the happy habit of industry which it would be difficult for him to give up. As a rule, the man who feels that he is old enough and rich enough to retire doesn't live very long after retiring.

THE LONG HAUL.

Despite the strain and strait of war Great Britain is not neglecting the future. It is promised that one of the earliest offerings of the reign of peace will be a solid through train from London to Capetown. The Cape-to-Cairo Railway, which a few years back was merely the dream of one enthusiast, is now visualized. The completion of a minor connecting link will establish it in its entirety. There is absolute certainty that the British channel tunnel—from Dover to Calais—will be completed at the close of the war and a train started from London would then proceed by way of Paris and Madrid to the Straits of Gibraltar. There the General Congress of Engineers favors, and the Spanish government approves, the construction of a tunnel across the straits to the coast of Morocco. In the meantime a ferry could transport the train in its entirety to Tangier or some other African port. From thence connections to Cairo could be quickly and easily made. Thus would be established the longest railway journey on earth and the trip could be made in about fifteen days with comfort and ease. Through Darkest Africa all the way from London in a Pullman—or the next thing to it—would make the ghost of Dr. Livingstone blink its hollow eye in mute marvel.

COLLAPSE OF THE TURKS.

One of the pillars of the great arch of the Central Powers is crumbling to pieces.

In many ways, the whirlwind offensive of Gen. Allenby against the Turks in Palestine is the most important victory of the war. It is important in present strategy; it is of overwhelming importance in the light of the future.

There are many striking similarities between this war and the American Civil War.

What is happening in the East now, the real significance of this movement, is that the Allies are getting ready to run the batteries of Vicksburg again. The real beginning of the end for the Confederacy was the victory of Gen. Grant at Vicksburg, when the Union armies were able to establish a line of communication completely surrounding the Southern States.

The elimination of the Turk from the war will have a similar effect.

The collapse of Germany will come with the rehabilitation of Russia as a military arm of the Allies; and the rehabilitation of Russia will occur when the Allies are able to establish direct communication between the east front and France. This will be done when the first Allied ship passes through the Dardanelles.

The first ship has not passed through the Dardanelles, but it seems as though we could look forward to such an event with certainty.

The Turk is slipping fast. The complete uprooting of this noxious weed which has befouled Europe for centuries is not far distant.

The Turk didn't want to go into this war in the first place. Ambassador Morgenthau's memoirs tell how the Arabic and Turkish soldiers were driven to the mobilization like cattle.

Their holy war has failed and its collapse has stripped the Turkish Empire of prestige in the East. Germany can't come to their rescue; Bulgaria is too hard pressed to come. The Turk is out there all alone in the cold.

If Turkey falls, Bulgaria's flank will be left naked to her enemies and the crumpling of Bulgaria would leave Austria's weakest flank unprotected.

The bricks are crumbling in the Kaiser's magnificent "Berlin to Bagdad" scheme.

THE "SINGLE TAX" MENACE.

Second only in importance to the great battles now raging on the western front and in Palestine is the economic struggle in which the productive forces of the Allied Powers are pitted against those of the Central Empires. "Force without stint or limit" applies to the home fronts as well as to the actual fighting zone. Disclosure of the German methods to weaken the Allied forces behind the lines have been of such moment and magnitude that it behooves every community to exercise that everlasting vigilance which is the safeguard alike of political and personal liberty.

Probably the greatest menace to the supreme economic effort which California is making is the Single Tax amendment which will appear on the November ballot under the camouflage of "Land Values Taxation" amendment No. 12. This amendment provides that on and after January 1, 1919, all public revenues, State, county, municipal and district, shall be raised by taxation of the value of land irrespective of the improvements thereon. This amendment was proposed in the legislative session of 1917 and was almost unanimously rejected. Not a State official and not a single one of the forty Senators expressed himself in favor of it. Yet money came from somewhere, admittedly from outside the State, to pay for circulating the petitions which forced the Secretary of State to place it on the ballot as an initiative measure.

The Times does not hesitate to characterize this amendment as pro-German propaganda. It is based on the teachings of Karl Marx and if it became a law it would do more harm to the industry of California than all the I.W.W. sabotage and incendiarism with which the State has been inflicted in recent years. The farmers are opposed to it because it imposes a greater tax burden than the land is able to bear. All business and industrial interests are opposed to it for the reason that it would throw millions of acres of land on a market that could not absorb it, would cause a defalcation on interest payment on millions of dollars of mortgages, would leave the State, the counties and the municipalities without revenue, forcing the schools to close and the abandonment of practically all public institutions. In short, there is not a single organization in California which places the winning of the war first, that is not opposed to the Single Tax amendment.

The Times has pointed out heretofore that California has contributed $300,000,000 during the last twelve months to the Federal war chest. There are half a million people in the State who are paying for Liberty bonds on the installment plan. If the whole economic and industrial structure of the State were to be rent in twain by this Single Tax amendment, then it would not be possible for its citizens to continue their payments on the bonds now issued, much less to take their quota of the new issue. To enact so revolutionary a measure at this time would be utterly destructive to California's participation in the war.

Two months ago The Times urged that a Federal investigation should be made of the sources of revenue which paid for circulating the Single Tax petitions. To be sure there were a few purblind theorists in the State who still clung to the fallacies of Henry George, fallacies whose falsity has been proved as incontestably as those of the Russian Soviets. And it is back of these theorists that disloyal interests have been able to work in the dark. Some of the Russian radicals were undoubtedly sincere; but it must not be forgotten that misdirected zeal is one of the greatest menaces to free institutions.

Single Tax amendments were proposed six, four and two years ago, and were decisively beaten. But the proponents of the measure are taking a chance that so many people will misunderstand the issue or will neglect to vote that the dreamers, the disloyalists and the Reds will be able to put the amendment over. It is an appeal not to the intelligence but to the prejudice of the voters. One of the great necessities of the present moment is to get more land under cultivation in California; but whoever tells you that multiplying the tax on land by ten will increase production is either a fool or a knave. Take the example of city lots. A vacant lot is to be taxed as high as the lot carrying a million dollar building. The object of this is said to be to force the owner of the vacant lot to put a building on it, to penalize the holder of the vacant land. But the owner would not be permitted to build if he desired. The government has placed all construction under a Federal board and refuses to permit the erection of a single building that is not absolutely necessary until the war is over. According to the argument of the Single Taxers the greater the financial depression the better times are generally. But every person, whether laborer or millionaire, who has gone through an industrial panic, knows that it is the workers that suffer first and most severely.

Whoever attempts to bring about an industrial panic at this time is a valuable auxiliary to the house of Hohenzollern; for the safety of the Allied cause rests in the industrial strength and unity of the Allied peoples. The present is no time for scattering energies, no time for doubtful, political or industrial experiments. California is doing her part under present conditions; she will continue to do so as long as she can. The Single Tax has never succeeded anywhere at any time; to attempt to force it upon the people of California is near treason. The Times is surprised that the Federal government has not already branded it as such.

TENNYSON'S FORECAST OF GERMAN HIDEOUSNESS.

The poet, Tennyson, in one of those illuminating phrases which make his "In Memoriam" a storehouse of wise philosophy, recommends a theory of life which builds itself on good and approaches evil only from the standpoint of good:

Hold thou the good; define it well;
For fear divine philosophy
Should push beyond her mark and be
Procuress to the lords of hell.

This is exactly what has happened in Germany during the last fifty years. Accepting a Machiavellian doctrine of the state, which allows it to do what we should otherwise call evil, and justify the deed, her philosophers, considering themselves all the while to be religious, and many of them feeling at home in the pulpit, have become procurers—a very ugly word—to the bandit-militarists whose looting den is Berlin.

Away as far back as 1871, when the virus of universal domination began with the victories over France, a German philosopher enunciated the following argument: "A state does not exist in order to be the innocent victim of foreign ill-will. It must at least be allowed to defend its own skin, get space enough for existence, and secure the atmosphere in which it alone can breathe, though a thousand treaties were against it. The aspiring state which represents the principle of historical progress has the superior historical right; and all treaties must yield to the demand of historical development." So says Prof. Lasson in his "Prinzip und Zukunft des Voelkerrechts." As in the overweening Teutonic conceit, Germany alone properly represents the principle of historical progress, this latitude to do iniquity and treat solemn pledges as mere scraps of paper is a prerogative of Germany among the nations. Germany has a supreme right to do anything she pleases. Quoting the above passage in a book of so recent date as 1917, a German writer, Renner, a Socialist, in no way signifies his disapproval, but goes on to say that, as there is no judge to decide which state represents the principle of historical development, nothing is left but the right of the stronger and the survival of the fittest.

This is evolution in its worst aspect, as carrying the attitude of the ferocious animal into the field of international relations where religion at its best is surely needed. In the ampler day anticipated by Tennyson he conceived of man

Who throve and branch'd from clime to clime,
The herald of a higher race,
And of himself in higher place,

as working out the Christian law more and more, the law of love and self-sacrifice, and learning how to

Move upward, working out the beast,
And let the ape and tiger die.

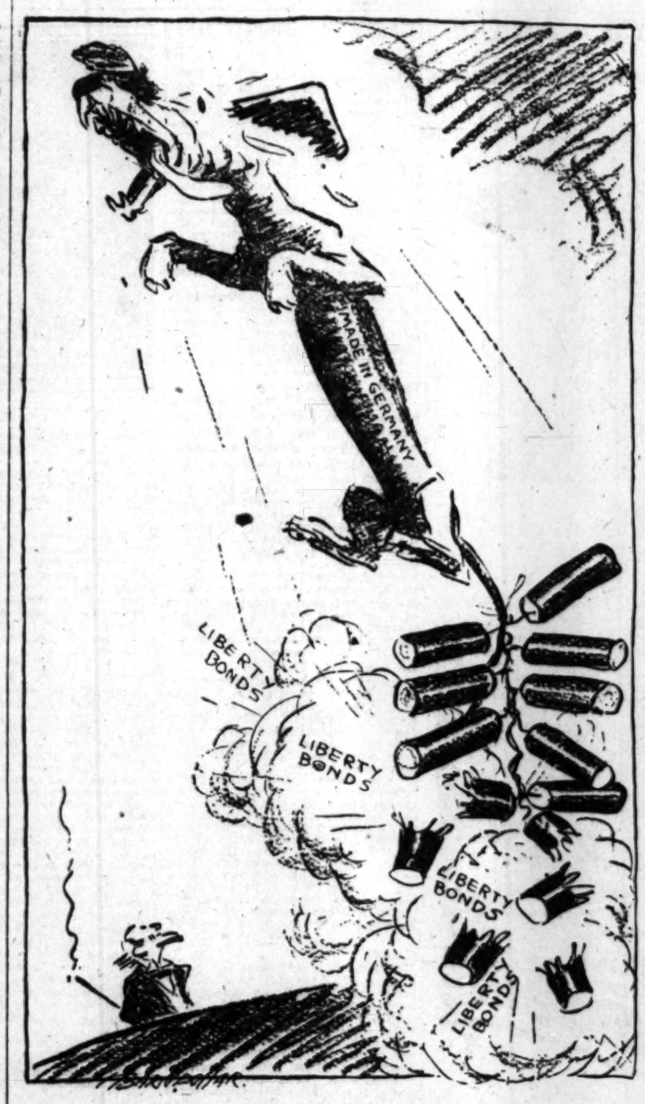
But these philosophers of Germany coolly tell their hearers and readers that it is necessary for the state, in its policy of self-realization, to plan a brutal selfishness and ferocity which far outdo the ape and tiger. Little wonder is it that the officers, trained in this worse than pagan philosophy, have been the most to blame in the iniquities of the war. It is part of a deliberate system where the German professors have been more loud-mouthed and violent than the soldiers.

The atheistic rule upon which they proceed is that necessity knows no law: Not kennt kein Gebot. The German jurist, Ihering, flatly states that where, as in war, a condition of "necessity" exists man of course must act like an animal in a non-moral sphere. And war is justified, he declares, where the conditions of external growth and internal development of the life of a people are permanently prejudiced, when these laws of life press beyond the inherited frontiers and constitutional boundaries and burst them. Thus Antwerp properly belongs to an expansive Germany; so does Denmark; so do the wheat-growing plains of the Ukraine. When she feels the need of them, and has the force to capture them, they properly come under the rule of Berlin!

This theory of national expansion makes war a natural outcome of things, as soon as force can be used with a prospect of immediate success; as soon as der Tag arrives. No wonder the world today looks upon the Kaiser and his Junker crowd of war lords as "Lords of Hell," to be ejected from a decent civilization, as Satan and the rebel angels were hurled from the battlements of heaven into the bottomless abyss.

In the bill passed by the House providing for the national census, to be taken in 1920, there is no provision for the enforcement of civil service rules in the employment of census takers. An effort will be made to change the bill in the Senate, and if unsuccessful there, the fight will be carried to the President. The country is not in any mood to tolerate spoils legislation, and resentment will be felt if Congress attempts to make the coming census a vehicle on which the Democratic job hunters may ride.

The Glorious Fourth Loan.



WOMEN AS REFORMERS

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

Some of those dear old saints of the past must be writhing in their graves today. For the saints believed that women were the source of all evil; they were put into the world by the devil to tempt and betray the souls of men. They were the personification of carnal sin. Some women were worse than others, but there were no good women. A heaven to which women were admitted was unthinkable. They had no souls, only steam. The training for priests was one long warning against women.

And now, in the twentieth century, never an inspired orator but assures women that the future salvation of the world depends upon them and their inherent morality. The great spring cleaning of the world is at hand—and upon our shoulders, sisters, has the burden been confidently placed. All the way from the Los Angeles Chief of the Police to the rulers of empires, via numerous candidates for office and respected Governors, we women are frankly conceded the palm of instinctive goodness and admonished to see to it that the world is made a decent place for democracy to thrive in. The Prohibitionists, the Morals Efficiency Commissions, the pastors and the war speakers are all obviously depending upon us.

Now this role of reformer is new for us, but the thing has been done by male moralists galore. The Puritan Fathers and their contemporaries had a wonderful time reforming the world. But men still enjoyed a monopoly of exclusive morality in those days and the Puritan mothers cut no ice at all. Which may account for the fact that the world still needs reforming. Masculinity has had a long, untrammeled inning and appears to be willing to admit that its success was meager.

Under the circumstances women, whose intelligence and goodness all speakers insist upon, are appreciating their new responsibility. There is going to be a riot of reform. Apparently it is merely a matter of organizations, with liberal subscribers and deluges of new legislation.

Are we going to repeat the old methods of ignoring human nature beyond the belief that it reeks of original sin; of scourging the sinner, of passing sumptuary laws, of vindictive persecution, of public shame, of bigotry and of copious punishment? It did not work very well in the old days under masculine prescience, for all their six ounces more brains and superior morality. Not even the terror of the public stocks, of street stoning, of the scarlet letter, of thumb-screwing, of the death sentence for stealing, of devious and enterprising tortures and stringent legislation purified the world. Are we going to do it by removing every kind of temptation with which God saw fit to try our mettle? One wonders just how much rejoicing there is in heaven over the sinless human who never was tempted, over the spruce soldier whose soul was never tried in battle and whose body bears no scars. We are only told of the rejoicing over the sinner that repenteth. Sad the soul, then, with nothing to repent. Are there to be no prodigal sons for whom to kill the fatted calf? Will every last man and woman of us indeed attain the right to throw the first stone?

It was, I think, the great French moralist of the seventh century whose ideal world was expressed in "Virtue without limit, pleasure without infamy, wit without affectation, distinction without vanity, and vices without baseness or disguise." An honorable world that, lacking only the arch-crime of hypocrisy.

And it would seem that the mothers of the 90's—those mothers whose boys are fighting the world's great battles today—for all that they had no prohibition, no Morals Efficiency Commissions, no liberally-supported reform organizations, attained something very near Vauvenargues' ideal world. We may even concede the fathers of the 90's some of the credit for that. They had slackened up a good deal on their reforms about that time and started a reign of comparative gentle tolerance.

And it is the mothers of the 90's who have done so handsomely by the world today, whose sons have risen so radiantly to the supreme test, to whom life's sacrifice is a precious dedication—glad and glorious human men, with a hundred trifling faults to make them dear, a thousand shining virtues to command awed admiration. No untempted prigs could have risen so high; no shamed public sinners could have stood forth so gloriously; no precious bigots could have won the love of our very souls as has been vouchsafed to these sons of the tolerant 90's.

They will make wondrous fathers, these boys, husbands to the wives upon whom the burden of "reform" is being so glibly placed. They will come back having known so much that can never be vouchsafed to their wives and womenfolk. Having looked grim death in the face and suffered all things; having looked so deep into each other's souls, they will find us so wondrous, so merciful, or such petty prigs, according as we undertake this world reformation. Are they coming back to a world of kindly tolerance, mercy and large understanding, ruled by love, or are they coming back to a world of petty nagging, priggish persecution, prurient smugness, ruled by vexatious legislation, and perennial faith in original sin?

And That Ain't No Lie.

The American army may be "all cream," as Gen. March said, but if you live to be as old as Methuselah you'll never see it whipped, be gosh!—[Buffalo Express.

NAGGING THE DRAMA.

BY TRUMAN B. HANDY.

They can't let the drama alone. For years past they have beleaguered it, "elevated it," "restored" it, and "unified" it. Their aim was to Russianize it, Sardoodle it, help it, intellectualize it, and adapt staid French plays to the requirements of a naughty American theater.

Someone, not long ago, had a big idea. He reasoned that the photoplay needed a national clearinghouse for any and all better film movements, that cinema clubs wherein the motion picture could be dissected and cross-sected, were necessary. The Photoplay League of America (as his organization is called) has recognized the greatness of the moving picture and its democratic poignancy!

According to the league's published announcement it comprises a number of leaders here and abroad. There are Sam Gompers, Cardinal Gibbons, Mrs. George Thatcher Guernsey, the president-general of the D.A.R.; Daniel Carter Beard, national commissioner of the Boy Scouts; John Barret, director-general of the Pan-American Union; the Marchioness of Aberdeen and Temair (whoever she is); Charles S. Barret, whose hope it is to educate and teach to co-operate the farmers of the country; Mrs. Philip North Moore, president of the National Council of Women; Samuel Dickie, president of the Association of Methodist College Presidents; Carrie Chapman Catt, once famed for her suffrage activity; Rabbi Hersch, Mrs. Helen Collins, whose life mission is to keep harmony between college sororities; Mrs. Nathaniel E. Harris, president of the National Council of Jewish Women; Mrs. Harriet E. Barry of the National Federation of College Women; Mary Garrett Hay, chairman of the woman's suffrage party of New York; Sophie Irene Loeb, a colleague of Laura Jean Libbey and writer of advice-to-the-lovelorn and Cynthia-Grey literature; Charles Sumner Burch, a suffrage bishop of New York—and others.

During the hegemony of the original drama league no play was safe—from them. This group of cognoscenti, which comprised aspiring ministers, meddlesome housewives, unsettled club women, school-teachers, soured spinsters, revengeful males with a general grudge against the world and no one to wreak vengeance upon except friend drama, and enthusiastic students at colleges and young ladies' boarding institutions with a desire to "do something" and a deal of misdirected energy, took stringent measures to bring the prodigal drama to its knees.

They all vowed that when a play was bad they would withhold their patronage and tell all their friends to stay away. Through their efforts a notice would next be posted in the public square and the scandal be given to the town crier to peddle.

All of which gratified considerably a certain thimble club in Evanston, Ill., from which this philosophy of wholesale uplift arose.

Just as the Drama League and its various lichens were in fair running order and dramatic heckling and bulletin posting became a fad rather than a fancy the war came along. Interest in this anatomical dissection commenced to wane. The spirit of Red Cross suddenly claimed the attention of a large number of the women. The spinsters sighed again despairingly and learned to knit, and the government called the majority of the males to the colors.

And now for almost a year dramatic producers have been left free to the flesh-pots of Egypt and the contamination of every dramatic ideal. Playwrights have been able to breathe a sigh of relief and a chance to count the sheep on the hill and the forty white horses without a thought of what was in store for their latest venture.

What the war did to the Drama League is to be hoped it will do to the Photoplay League. The motion picture is a great estate. That cannot be disputed. The government has recognized its propaganda potentiality and pressed it into service.

But at a time when women's sons are dying on the field of honor and when mothers' hearts are wrung the photoplay and everything else is of least consideration. The cinema needs a cleaning. Salacious films have become one of the American evils. They are an original creation with us and for a time it seemed as if they had us all by the throat. We have done the best we could to fight them off, and a lack of patronage has stopped the blood flow.

It seems a pity that Mary Roberts Rinehart and the members of the federation of college women are turning the smallest bit of their attention away from the war. The Belgian babies with their broken, mutilated bodies; bereft, starving French women; Serbia the raped and dismantled, are calling. The war activities center of the Council of Defense has appealed for women civilian relief sewers. And, then, too, there is always the Red Cross.

It's a poor time for them to start beleaguering the drama. If there is anything wrong with it the reason is that they have picked at it so long that it has not had a chance to develop. Let it alone and the drama will get healthy.

Slav Birth Rate Excessive.

The excessive birth rate of the Russian people is a menace to itself and to the rest of the world. If the masses do not limit the size of their families, all the land the peasants have gained by the revolution will go to support increase of population instead of raising the plane of life, and twenty or thirty years hence they will be just as poor and miserable as they are now.

Unfortunately the revolution has checked the break-up of the rural communes, and communal landholding, with its encouragement to multiplication, seem now stronger than ever. . . . The false Tolstoian ideal of unambitiousness, brotherly love, simple standards of living and prolific wifehood would make Russia as dismal as China.—["Russia in Upheaval," by Edward Alsworth Ross. HYMN FOR OUR SOLDIERS IN FRANCE.

O Lord of Hosts, whose might
In safety keeps 'mid war's alarms
Protect our soldiers at this hour
Who bear of war the bitter brunt
And in the hour of danger shield

Make bare Thine arm of mighty power,

Oh, in the hour of danger shield

And in the hour of danger shield

NO SLACKERS THERE.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

POMONA, Sept. 22.—Some folks have been accused of adopting a child so that the man of the house would not have to go to war, but last week a man and woman of this city adopted a little girl so that the man could go to the front. Last week she was placed in a good home, where she will have motherly treatment and will be sent to school. Her new father will go to war, while the new mother looks after the little girl, and in return the little girl will be company and good cheer for the otherwise lonesome wife.

SUGGESTS SERVICE BADGE.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONG BEACH, Sept. 23.—E. J. Richards of this city believes a badge of recognition should be given to noncombatants sacrificing business and devoting their services to the government in some form. He has written to Secretary of War Baker and to Gov. Stephens, calling attention that thousands of Red Cross workers and others within the draft ages, who are disqualified for active service because of physical disabilities or other sufficient reasons, may be saved much annoyance after the war if they have something to show why they did not wear the uniform.

BAPTISTS CELEBRATE.

Special Services at Downey Commemorate the Fiftieth Anniversary of Church.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

DOWNEY, Sept. 23.—Sunday was an important epoch in the history of the Downey Baptist Church, at which time an all-day meeting was held in commemoration of the fiftieth anniversary of the organization of the church.

Former members and pastors from near-by towns were present and the occasion was one of joyful "home coming." Following a sermon delivered by Dr. W. F. Harper of Los Angeles at 11 o'clock an elaborate basket dinner was enjoyed by several hundred under the trees of the church ground. Assembling again in the church after dinner short talks were made by the following former pastors: Rev. John A. Freeman of Artesia, aged 97, who was present at the foundation in 1856; Rev. J. F. Moody of Los Angeles, Rev. L. A. Gould of Los Angeles, Rev. J. D. Green of Gardena and Rev. A. J. Copass of Rivera.

The history of the Downey organization was read by Miss Ollie Hutchinson of Glendale. Other numbers on the programme were vocal solos by Miss Gertrude Gilmore of Los Angeles and violin solos by Miss Edna Claire Van Matre. Dr. J. Whitcomb Brougher of the Temple Baptist Church, Los Angeles, delivered the afternoon sermon. His able discourse was interspersed with witticisms and in his usual convincing style laid out the path of duty for the layman of the church.

The Downey Baptist Church was organized in a little schoolhouse a mile north of Downey on September 19, 1868, in a community known as Old Gallatin. The first pastor was Rev. Isaac Fuqua and later Rev. I. C. Curtis, father of Superior Judge Curtis, administered to the spiritual needs of the community. For years preachers came to Downey from as far as San Bernardino to fill semi-monthly appointments. The Downey church is now the oldest organization of the Baptist denomination in Southern California, but one church, El Monte, now disbanded, having been instituted at an earlier date, 1866. The first meeting of the Los Angeles Baptist Association was held in the Downey church in 1869. The association at that time was composed of five churches—El Monte, San Bernardino, Downey (then known as Los Nietos,) San Antonio and Spadra.

Rev. James Robertson, who for the past five years has been pastor of the local organization, holds the record in length of service covering the past fifty years.

DONATE UNDERWEAR.

Having no Use for "Heavies" in California, Pasadenans Give to Belgians.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PASADENA, Sept. 23.—Having given away in previous war drives suits of clothes, caps and shoes which they no longer needed, Pasadena citizens are now donating good woolen underwear for the suffering Belgians in the week's campaign, which began today under the auspices of the Red Cross.

The donors will not suffer for their generosity, for they are not planning to go back to their eastern estates this season because of the coal situation and the war. Consequently, they will not need their "heavies" in Southern California.

WOMEN STUDY MACHINERY.

All the street sweepers, tractors, and tanks that attack the bugs in the parks, oilers and other rolling stock of the municipality of Pasadena, were mobilized on Holly street this afternoon for the benefit of the "know your city" class of the Women's Council of Defense. The women had all the intricacies and functions of the machinery explained and exemplified for them by Street Superintendent John Beyer. The class meets five days a week and is studying the whole town, from municipal kinks and quirks to the wholesale and retail business.

WOUNDED FRENCHMAN PRAISES AMERICANS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA BEACH, Sept. 23.—A letter from Paul Boinet, for whom the Boinet Guild of Santa Monica Beach was named, reached Mrs. I. N. Speers of this city today. Capt. Boinet had reached New York from Bordeaux and wrote to the guild from there. The captain takes the boxes and parcels from the local guild to the headquarters in France, where the needed articles are distributed.

"My brother-in-law, Henri Brusster, already three times wounded and now in the sector held by the Americans, is never done telling the praises of their bravery and of their good comradeship. Well they deserve it. Everybody loves them in France. We look upon them as our saviors," writes the grateful mariner.

There is to be a benefit entertainment at the Windermere for this charity. It comes on Saturday night.

FEATURE NIGHT SCHOOL.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

POMONA, Sept. 23.—The night school is to play an important part in the educational system of Pomona this year, and arrangements are being made to increase the number of classes so that there will be sessions on four nights instead of two in the past. The classes will be given over largely to work which has as its object the preparation of the student for army service. From present prospects the night school will start off with a registration of over 500. It will be in charge of Principal Reynolds of the High School.

"WAR BOYS" LEADING.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Sept. 23.—The old, old tradition that in war times more boys than girls are born has been proved in Redlands. City Clerk C. P. Hook has kept a complete record of the births during the year and he finds that so far, since January 1, 111 babies have been born here, and of these sixty-five are boys and forty-six are girls. The year before 121 babies were born during the same period, and of these seventy-one were girls and fifty were boys. The record for many years back also shows more girls than boys.

FAVORS MOTOR BUSSES.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA BEACH, Sept. 23.—William H. Carter, Commissioner of Public Works, this morning declared his intention to support any good motor-bus transportation project that promises cheaper fares to and from Los Angeles. He believes the raise in railroad fares to 65 cents for the round trip, including the war tax, will keep many people away.

PREDICT COLD WINTER.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

EAST HIGHLANDS, Sept. 23.—It is to be a long, cold winter, according to the poultry experts of this section, for they say that the chickens have a heavier growth of winter feathers than usual. The mountaineers also predict a hard winter, for the squirrels and other animals have been very industrious in getting in a good supply of nuts, and most of the animals have a heavy coat of fur.

PROMINENT FARMER DIES.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LA VERNE, Sept. 23.—Jacob E. Buck, for the past fourteen years a well-known resident of La Verne, died at his home at the corner of Fourth and D streets at 11 o'clock yesterday. He was 66 years of age and was a native of Illinois, where he was a farmer. Besides the wife he leaves one son, A. C. Buck, of Arizona. Funeral services will be held at 3:30 Tuesday afternoon from the Church of the Brethren in La Verne. The body will be sent to Franklyn Grove, Ill., later, for burial.

PRIOR FUNERAL TODAY.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VENICE, Sept. 23.—The funeral of Col. Thomas W. Prior will be held at the Elks' clubhouse at 10 o'clock tomorrow. A large delegation of friends of the deceased will attend from Los Angeles. Rev. Dr. J. Whitcomb Brougher of the Temple Baptist Church will officiate.

CYCLE RIDER HURT.

Donald Warner, a fourteen-year-old youth residing at No. 3666 Moss avenue, in Glassell Park, was painfully injured yesterday afternoon, when the bicycle on which he was riding collided with an auto truck driven by Sam Fusco, a Japanese fruit merchant. The truck struck him a glancing blow, inflicting a deep scalp wound on the right side of the head, and badly cutting his knees and toes as it rolled him along the pavement for several yards. He was treated at the Receiving Hospital.

FOR SEPARATE SUPPORT.

Lewis Edwin Booth, traffic manager of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company in Pasadena, was made defendant yesterday in a suit for separate maintenance filed by Olive Frick Booth. The couple were married in Denver November 18, 1904, and have a son, Richard, 10 years old. Mrs. Booth alleges that she was deserted August 23, 1917; that Mr. Booth used profane and abusive language toward her, struck her and took her by the throat and threw her against a porch railing. She asks $100 a month and the custody of her son.

Yes, but Contrary to Rules of War.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 23.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Why could not our government use the German prisoners taken by our soldiers to assist on our transports and other vessels, and if the submarines sink them they would punish themselves and give the Germans a dose of their own medicine? Of course, Germany could be notified of what we were going to do. This is merely a suggestion from a poor old deaf man.

Why 10-Key Daltons are chosen by the Railroads

Over 200 work for the Pennsylvania

ERIE, Burlington Route, Baltimore & Ohio, Chicago Milwaukee St. Paul, New Jersey Central, Rock Island, Southern Pacific Lines

Atlantic Coast Line, Erie, Big Four, Canadian Pacific, Seaboard Air Line Ry., Frisco, Southern Railway System

Our Railroads are America's largest industrial corporations. Their daily figure work is enormous. Machines are subject to heavy duty and are bought for organizations, not individual preferences.

The number of DALTONS used by the Pennsylvania System is typical of DALTON demand. The simple 10-Key keyboard is instantly grasped by any employee. Accuracy is assured because the opportunity for error is eliminated. A figure item of six figures, followed by one of four figures, followed by one of one cent—the DALTON puts dollars under dollars, cents under cents automatically.

That is one reason why the DALTON is the fastest adding and listing machine made. It saves miles of hand movements, saves continuous eye reference to figures and keys. Operators attain unequalled speed because they operate by touch. Make a test on your own work and see for yourself.

OIL AS STAPLE AS WHEAT.

BY CHAPIN HALD.

So many things enter into the fluctuations of stock quotations that it is a wise man indeed who is able to keep track of more than a few of them. There may be a perfectly plain and entirely obvious reason for any given condition, or so far as surface indications go, there may be no reason at all. As a matter of fact, there is always a reason, be it real, imaginary, good, bad or indifferent.

It has been interesting to watch during the period through which the market has been passing, the rise and fall and rise again of the so-called local oil stocks, a surprisingly large amount of which is held by small investors in this community.

As this column attempted to demonstrate a few days ago staple stocks which have behind them the reserve of actual supply are bound to hold their own, or at least to regain their own if they fall to hold it in the hurly-burly of current speculation.

Take oil, for example. Great as is the California production, the demand is greater, and it it only possible to get upon the market an approximate maximum. The oil business is in the hands of men, companies, corporations, who are existent for the legitimate profit to be derived from the conduct of their business, i.e., the production of a commodity at a certain cost, and the selling of it as a slightly advanced price.

Oil development is very costly. A well costs from $20,000 to $100,000, and the chances are from 10 to 100 to 1 that the venture will result in a dry hole. Is it reasonable to presume that those who drill for oil are going to take that chance unless the return when they do "strike it" is commensurate to the investment and the risk? The oil fields of the country, of the world, are limited and well controlled. The use of gasoline for any except war purposes has been practically stopped overseas, and in this country auto production is curtailed, joy riding discouraged, and automobiles are increasingly hard to procure, either for pleasure or business. Every ounce of oil is needed now and will be needed after the war when the rush to catch up on deferred business comes. Good oil stock is as staple as any good stocks, and as sound an investment as could be found.

The same argument applies to many industrials. All sorts of supplies will be in demand after the war. Substantial stocks will go up and stay up. Steel will be needed to rebuild the world instead of to destroy it. Municipal and other improvements long deferred will be undertaken. Ship building will not cease, nor ships lie idle. High prices? Perhaps, but the scales will balance, and there will be money to meet the cost, and an accumulation of investments to get into circulation again.

NEW YORK MARKET REVIEW

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—The gradual advance in prices which began in the stock market at the termination of the liquidation caused by the restriction of loans was resumed today where it left off on Saturday.

Opening with quotations fractionally higher, the market responded to steady buying, short covering and stimulating war news. Except for occasional profit taking around midday and for a brief period in the final hour, the progress was maintained throughout the day, and the closing was strong, with a number of substantial gains.

The investment railroads made important gains, this strength being attributed to the published indications that the Railroad Administration would take over the short line roads under contract, which would permit rate increases. United States and Bethlehem steels and Baldwin Locomotive and other equipments prospered under the large buying orders, United States Steel reaching 111¾, a new high in the present movement, Mexican Petroleum attaining a new high figure, 106⅝ for the year. Sales amounted to 235,000 shares.

Liberal offerings of Liberty Bonds at concessions of 30 to 60 points for certain of the 4's and 4 1-4's were commonly associated with preparations for investment in the new loan. Foreign war bonds were variable, with French government 5½'s reaching a new high figure at 101 1-4. Total sales, par value, $8,300,000.

United States bonds, old issues, were unchanged on call, but coupon 4 1-4's sold half a point below the previous prices.

Liberty Bond closing: 3½s, 100.06. First convertible 4s, 95.98; second 4s, 95.42. First convertible 4 1-4s, 96.04; second convertible 4 1-4s, 95.50; third 4 1-4s, 95.48.

MILITARY RITES ARE GIVEN ARMY FLYER.

MANY OFFICERS ATTEND THE FUNERAL OF LATE LIEUT. JOHN WIDENHAM.

Military rites in which no salute was fired nor taps blown, but which was attended by throngs of officers and civilian friends of the dead aviator, was given Second Lieutenant John M. Widenham yesterday afternoon at Mountain View Cemetery, Pasadena.

Lieut. Widenham was killed at Love Field, Texas, last Wednesday in an airplane accident. His body was brought here by Lieut. Paul Strawn, his comrade during training, and his boyhood friend.

A funeral service was held at the chapel of W. A. Brown in this city, at which Lieut. William MacDonald, army chaplain, officiated, and at which the Rev. Marcus T. McClure, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Hollywood, spoke in eulogy of Lieut. Widenham. Among the officers and civilians present to honor the dead soldier, a patrol of Boy Scouts from the Hollywood patrol mingled.

A platoon from the Arcadia Aeronautical section escorted the long funeral procession from this city to Pasadena, and presented arms as three officers and three civilians bore the casket to the grave. There Lieut. MacDonald read the military burial service, and Dr. McClure offered a prayer.

From above, where Lieut. B. R. Greene and Lieut. H. H. Wells circled in planes from March Field, roses fluttered to the grave.

STEALS WAR STAMPS.

Ninety dollars in War Savings Stamps and $30 in cash was the loot secured by a pass-key burglar, who entered the room of Jack Burtic, at No. 838 South Olive street, according to his report to the police yesterday. The burglar also secured a valuable revolver.

COUNTY AUCTIONS AUTOS.

The county offered for sale at the steps of the Courthouse yesterday four used automobiles. Bids on two of the machines were not high enough and they were withdrawn. Two 1916 Dodges were sold at bids of $430 and $450.

SENT TO IONE.

Vicente Marsiglia, who pleaded guilty to stealing a Ford automobile, was yesterday sentenced to Ione until August, 1920, when he will be of age. Mike Gonzales and Manuel Tirroz, jointly charged with Marsiglia, were allowed to go on condition that they both report for duty as registrants under the last draft law. Marsiglia might have been given the same clemency, but it was his second offense.

HER OWN SLEUTH.

Anna G. Nilsson, a Lasky moving picture actress, lost her large Packard auto car last Friday, and determined to be her own detective. She started out sleuthing, and was so sucessful that she believes she has the persons in view who took the car. Yesterday she laid the matter before Detective Powell of the auto club, and he applied to Deputy District Attorney Heinicke for a John Doe complaint, which was issued.

Pioneer Physician Dies at Nearly Ninety — Son Just Given Army Commission.

Dr. William B. Bullard, 89, resident of Los Angeles for thirty-two years, and the father of Dr. Frank Bullard of this city and Dr. Charles T. Bullard of King City, only yesterday commissioned as lieutenant in the Signal Corps, died yesterday. Lieut. Bullard left yesterday for Fort Riley, Kan., and has not yet learned of his father's death.

Dr. William B. Bullard is known as the oldest physician in the Los Angeles County Medical Society, and also in the medical societies of Southern California and of Penobscot county, Maine. He leaves a widow at No. 559 North Avenue Twenty-three.

WAR DOES NOT CUT SCHOOL ENROLLMENT.

In spite of war conditions the enrollment of the high schools of California has increased remarkably during the last two years, according to Will C. Wood, State Commissioner of secondary schools, who yesterday submitted his biennial report to the State Board of Education. In 1916 the total enrollment was 95,405. Figures compiled for 1918 show an enrollment of 136,757, an increase of 31,352 pupils, or 33 per cent. The increase during the last year alone was 14,073.

The figures show that the enrollment of boys has not increased so rapidly as that of the girls, the increase for boys being 18 per cent., and that for girls 46 per cent.

Drs. White & Wainwright:

Gentlemen: About two months ago I noticed your ad in the L. A. Times and though I confess I did not have much faith in your ability at that time to cure a long-standing case of piles (25 years) such with which I was suffering. Especially without an operation. My condition at that time was such I could not walk three blocks without acute pain. In fact, I got no relief day nor night; I was in torment. It was an absolute necessity that led me to answer your ad that decided me to take your treatment. At the first treatment you put a stop to the loss of blood. The relief I experienced changed me from a doubting Thomas to a firm believer. In your wonderful methods today the piles have completely disappeared. I have not lost a drop of blood since that first treatment. Have gained in weight and strength. Am well and happy. Wish I was able to tell everybody suffering from this dread affliction of your scientific methods and almost miraculous cures. Words are too inadequate to convey to you my heartfelt gratitude at my comparatively painless, speedy and complete recovery. Drs. W. & W., I thank you. Yours truly,

MAY BE TRIED AS DESERTERS.

Captured Livingston Brothers to Face Serious Charge.

Are Arrested in Venezuela in Company with Mother.

Family Disappears Following Series of Complaints.

That Ben and Robert Livingston, who are reported in press dispatches as under arrest in Venezuela, where they were traveling with their mother, may be turned over to the military authorities, on their arrival here, for trial on the charge of being deserters, was the statement yesterday of Assistant United States District Attorney Lawson, who has been in charge of the case since its inception. Otherwise, they will be tried on the original charge of conspiracy.

In February last the charge was made against Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Livingston, the parents of the two boys, that they had made false affidavits in the questionnaire returned by Robert Livingston, who was eligible for selective service. But before the parents could be apprehended Robert fled from the country. Then an effort was made to apprehend the parents, but they, too, had seemingly left the country.

On March 26 a complaint was issued by Daniel M. Hammack, then United States Commissioner, since deceased, charging the sisters of the boys with having conspired to assist in the get-away of Robert Livingston. The young women were arrested and held in bond of $2500, but were later released. Then the bond of Ben Livingston, who had been previously arrested, was made $10,000, when it was shown that he had placed all of his real estate holdings in Los Angeles city and county in the hands of an agent, the presumption being that he, too, intended to leave the country.

Later it was found that Elsie and Clara Livingston had secured passports for San Salvador, but these they were compelled to turn over to the clerk of the United States District Court, it being believed that this would prevent them from leaving the country. They both promised to be present when the trial of Ben Livingston was called in the local Federal Court.

One June 11 it was shown that the girls had left the country, and when the case of Ben was called he did not appear, and the bail of $10,000 was declared forfeited.

The case originally arose when Assistant United States District Attorney Lawson discovered, it was charged, that George Washington Livingston, another son of the Livingstons, had obtained his discharge from Camp Lewis by feigning illness and had fled to San Salvador. It was then found that the parents had made an alleged false affidavit to help another son, Robert, out of the draft.

PUT QUESTIONS UP TO PEOPLE.

City Council Paves Way for November Balloting.

Proportional Representation Scheme is Killed.

Jitney, Gas and Pension Plans Ride Way to Favor.

A death blow was given the radical proportional representation scheme for the election of Councilmen, yesterday, when the Council, by a vote of 7 to 2, refused to give it a place upon the November ballot.

All objections to the district representation plan were ironed out and the proposition will be upon the ballot. The Council, however, attached a rider to the proposed amendment, which was not sought by the committee recommending the measure and which may result in the defeat of the proposition. It is a provision which makes the terms of all elective offices four years.

The representation plan would divide the city into fifteen districts, one Councilman to be elected from each. It is generally believed that this is popular and no doubt will be approved at the polls, unless the people object to the provision relating to the terms of the elective offices.

By a vote of 6 to 3, the Council refused to permit the proposition providing for an executive budget to be placed upon the ballot. The Council took the stand that the proposed charter amendment would give the Mayor too much power. While it may be considered that the Council's action was a slap at the Mayor, who favors an executive budget, it is the opinion of many around the City Hall that the blow will be more keenly felt by the several civic organizations who were behind it. They are the Chamber of Commerce, Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, Municipal League, Central Labor Council and others.

Among other propositions to be voted on at the November election is the initiative ordinance presented months ago by the jitney-bus owners. The ordinance would eliminate the restricted zone, which is bounded by First and Eighth streets and Hill and Main streets. Whether the people should approve the elimination or not the jitney-bus drivers could not operate within the district, the Board of Public Utilities having decreed that jitneys are nonessentials when they operate on lines parallel to street car systems.

The natural gas ordinance, which would require all companies to supply straight natural gas, also will be voted upon. Whether or not a pension fund shall be created for police and firemen also will be placed upon the ballot.

EXPECT ARREST SOON IN MURDER MYSTERY.

POLICE DECLARE STAIN PAINTING CONTRACTOR HAD A WOMAN IN HIS AUTO.

An arrest and a confession are expected within the next forty-eight hours by the authorities in connection with the murder of Frank S. Love, Los Angeles and Long Beach painting contractor who was shot through the head in his own automobile on Friday night between Los Angeles and Long Beach. That there is one woman in the case, possibly two, has been definitely established. That Love during the evening had as a passenger in his car a woman, not his wife, has also been confirmed, the police assert. A woman was seen to accost Love near his Los Angeles house on Thirty-eighth street early Friday evening.

After the shooting, the car was driven to a meadow south of Compton, where an effort was made to clean the machine. The body was deposited along the road near the Compton "Four Corners." The automobile was deserted eight miles nearer the city at Cudahy ranch. Therefore, the exact place of the murder remains a mystery, according to Deputy Sheriffs Fox and Nolan, who are working on the case.

The motive is also a mystery. Love was 47 years old and lived happily and quietly with his wife and son, Donald, 20 years old, this summer at Long Beach. He has lately been redecorating the Girls' Collegiate School at Adams and Hoover streets. Mrs. Love, the widow, has a theory that her husband may have picked up some friends to ride home with him. Nothing in the slain man's pockets was disturbed.

An inquest will be held this morning at Pierce Bros.' undertaking rooms.

CLUB MAN DROPS DEAD.

W. R. Gibbs, Official of Union League Organization, Taken Suddenly at Long Beach.

W. R. Gibbs of No. 1100 West Thirty-first street, assistant secretary of the Union League Club of the State, dropped dead in the Salt Lake station at Long Beach yesterday while waiting for a car to take him to his home. With his family he had been enjoying an outing at the beach, and was in excellent spirits and health until the fatal attack of heart failure suddenly seized him. He was accompanied by his wife, young son and two grandchildren at the time of death.

Mr. Gibbs was deputy City Auditor of Los Angeles, and through his connection with the Union League Club had a wide circle of friends throughout the State. He was 59 years old.

SLACKER ALIENS GIVEN PAUSE.

May be Deported if They Try to Dodge Draft by Withdrawing Papers.

A number of local aliens who have recently withdrawn their declarations to become American citizens, hoping, it is said, thereby to resume their alien status and thus escape the draft law, will forever be debarred from later seeking the protection of American citizenship.

This sting in the new rules is causing many of the applicants to pause before taking the step. It is said to be more than likely that such aliens as indicate their indifference to American citizenship will, when the battle flags are furled, be sent back to the countries from which they came and to which they are now so anxious to preserve their allegiance.

Aliens desiring to file their first papers, or declaration of intention, must do so before October 4, as there will be no further opportunity after that date until after the November election.

stooping to this knavery was because I believed that I would get out on parole in one year and also have my Arizona record cleared up. This made a very bright future loom up before me, for if I went to Arizona I would have to serve eight years. I have realized my mistake and am innocent of this charge, had nothing to do with it and know nothing about it. The charge against me in Arizona is embezzlement.

"I will add that the evening of the day of which these two checks were cashed I was lying at the point of death at No. 568 East Pico street, Los Angeles, Cal. I was taken the following Tuesday night to the County Hospital in Los Angeles, and there Dr. Wilbur B. Parker operated upon me in order to save my life. His records will show that I was there under the name of Thomas Miller, lying in ward No. 301. The doctor knows about me being in prison here at Folsom. Three days after my release from the hospital I was arrested on suspicion and charged with grand larceny. When at the Police Station I heard for the first time about the forgery matter."

Due Vey has had a devious career. He has been in the courts on the charge of bigamy and is said to have served a two years' sentence in Auburn Prison, New York.

HOW THEY WORKED.

At the hearing of Flood and Benkert before Justice Forbes yesterday Benkert told in detail how he and Flood obtained money. He said that after obtaining $2500 on a forged check he split the money with Mr. Flood in a taxicab. Months passed, he said, before he again conferred with Flood. Then he said he took a bunch of checks to Venice and met his alleged confederate in a barroom at Venice.

The arrest of Benkert was the result of a trick of fate. Checks blown from a waste basket belonging to Mrs. Edith Greever of Ocean Park flew into the yard at the rear of a house occupied by Mr. Benkert. These checks, it is alleged, gave him an opportunity of studying Mrs. Greever's signature.

Benkert, as charged, forged Mrs. Greever's signature and also the signature of Floyd Ellis, a Los Angeles banker, the checks amounting to $2100. The operation, as explained by Benkert yesterday, was a system of tracing which was so clever that detection seemed almost impossible. He said that he and Flood were tempted to forge other checks after the $2500 clean-up because they were broke.

Benkert was arrested at an isolated ranch near Santa Susana after an all-night pursuit by Pinkerton detectives and Detective Sergeant Charles Jones.

A silver cigar holder used to make an inked circle around an intial in a forged check was used as an exhibit by Deputy District Attorney Clark in Justice Forbes's court yesterday. It had on its surface a thin smear of purple ink. There was also on the edge of the holder a chip which corresponded to a break on the circles of the checks Mr. Clark offered in evidence.

HUNDREDS SEEK TO BE ARTILLERY OFFICERS.

Nearly 200 more men appeared for examination yesterday at the headquarters of the Coast Artillery Officers' Training School, in room No. 513 Chamber of Commerce Building, making a total of nearly 500 applicants to date. Medical examinations and mental tests were given a number of the men, and it was announced that while few had any difficulty in passing the physical examination, nearly 60 per cent. were not of mental requisite.

The examinations are under the direction of Col. Harry L. Steele, who will continue the mental examination on Saturday for a number that were referred for re-test.

EQUIPMENT COMPANY SUED BY CREDITORS.

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in the United States District Court yesterday against the Master Equipment Company, doing business at No. 2201 South Main street.

The petitioning creditors are the Ducommun Hardware Company, with a bill of $201.99; the Union Hardware and Metal Company, a creditor to the extent of $142.98, and William G. Wadley, who alleges the corporation owes him $7448.67.

RAISE FOR POLICE FORCE.

Men and women working in the police department will receive $120 a month after four years of service. This was unanimously approved by the Council yesterday when it adopted a new salary ordinance providing for the increase. Formerly, fourth-year patrolmen and patrolwomen received $115 per month. The increase was granted at the request of Lee Heath, a police lieutenant.

TWENTY-EIGHT TO FACE JURY.

Alleged Agents of "Kingdom News" on Trial Today.

Charge is a Violation of the Espionage Act.

Echo of "Finished Mystery" Case to be Heard.

Another chapter in the prosecution of local pacifists, resulting from the circulation in this city of copies of the Kingdom News, published at No. 13 Hicks street, Brooklyn, N. Y., will be written this morning, when twenty-eight defendants to Federal indictments will face a jury in United States District Judge Bledsoe's court.

The twenty-eight defendants include Scott Anderson, W. Homer Lee and Ernest D. Sexton, a Bible Institute lecturer. It is understood that on account of the poor health of Anderson he will not be put on trial, and that W. Homer Lee, one of the best-known of the defendants, will be a witness for the government.

Sexton heads the list of accused, with Eliza P. Taliferro, Gebhard L. Defrose, Walter O. Manny, Fred Gallaher, Julius and Alexander Festner, Fred Pletsch, Harry Ware, Edward McCleery, James G. Boas, Ethan Scheidler, Frank P. Sherman, Thomas Embleton, W. A. Vosburg, Edward A. Jurd, Arthur W. Sibley, H. M. Byers, Allen McGuire, C. Russell Siglin, Frank M. Watkins, B. W. Mettler, Jacob Halvajain, A. B. Schaeffer, Harry Van Til and Sam W. Wana included in the list.

The charge against the defendants is that about May 1, 1918, they circulated copies of a circular known as the Kingdom News, attacking the action of the government in prosecuting those who circulated "The Finished Mystery," the Pastor Russell book, which has been declared by Federal authorities to be unpatriotic and seditious. The specific charge against the defendants is a violation of the Espionage Act, obstructing recruiting and causing insubordination, disloyalty, mutiny and refusal of duty among the soldiers and sailors of the United States.

A determined defense will be made, it is said, and the case will continue for most of the week. The local headquarters of the cult was No. 1051 South Grand avenue, it is said.

WOMEN'S WORK, WOMEN'S CLUBS.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

Woman's City Club.

The largest gathering at the Woman's City Club for many months yesterday assembled to greet Mrs. Martha Nelson McCan, just home from England and to hear her speak on "What We Must Do for Our Returned Disabled Soldiers."

Mrs. McCan, who, upon her return to America, went to Washington, where she plunged into war work, was made field representative of the ordnance division of the War Department and is just closing a speaking tour under the Committee on Public Information. She has spoken in every city of consequence in the United States.

"London," said Mrs. McCan, "is entirely run by women. They think, talk and dream of nothing else but service. Not a single suggestion of society is to be found anywhere and there is not a private motor car in all England that has not been commandeered for active war service. The fashionable shops on Bond street are all going out of business because their former wealthy customers are buying no new clothes.

"In a desire to serve it is often difficult to see that the highest service lies closest at hand," she said. "All eyes are turned toward Europe. But the message of Sir Arthur Pearson is that the women will find in the stay-at-home service they can do the greatest good. All over the country there are countless ways in which women can make themselves invaluable factors toward bringing the conflict to a speedy close right here on American soil.

"The women serving in the hospitals or in the canteens in France cannot be of any more actual assistance than the woman worker in the local factory who is doing her share to speed essential industry. So much depends upon early shipments of food and other supplies, and shipping is dependent upon production. The tremendous problem that has been demanding the utmost of devotion, endurance and sacrifice of the English women for the past four years must be prepared for here," said Mrs. McCan.

Mrs. McCan went to England in July, 1917.

Mrs. McCan's purpose in going to England was to learn what the women there are doing for the rehabilitation of their wounded and blind soldiers. To do this she made a special study of the blind at St. Dunstan's under the direction of Sir Arthur Pearson, himself blind for nearly two years before the war. He is devoting himself to the welfare of the blind soldiers, teaching them new occupations. Mrs. McCan also volunteered her services for work at the Liberty Hut on the strand, where she learned the British methods in canteen work. At St. Dunstan's Mrs. McCan was associated with women of the nobility and other prominent society women who volunteered their services.

Mrs. McCan is the first woman in the United States to serve on the Civil Service Commission. She was president and also was president of the Friday Morning Club.

Matinee Musical Club.

On October 3 the Matinee Musical Club will celebrate its tenth anniversary and this date will also mark the opening meeting of the club for the season of 1918. The meeting will be held in the Gamut Club Auditorium, at 2:30 p.m. Mrs. Edith Lillian Clark, chairman of the Music Committee, is arranging a very beautiful programme, details of which will be given at a later date. The club anticipates a very active year.

CHINESE MAY STAY HERE.

United States District Judge Bledsoe yesterday reversed the finding of United States Commissioner Long ordering the deportation of Jim On, a local Chinese. The court said that the accused was properly in the country, and had done nothing since coming here to forfeit that right.
